

NEW DEAL CRITIC WINS ELECTION IN RHODE ISLAND

Charles F. Risk (Rep.) Voted House Seat by Textile District That Gave Democrat 21,000 Margin Last November.

DEFEATS ROOSEVELT CANDIDATE BY 12,000

Result in "Repudiate Administration" Campaign Viewed as Disapproval of Both National and State Policies.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 7.—Rhode Island's first Congressional district elected Charles F. Risk of Saylesville, a Republican, to the House of Representatives yesterday. His campaign slogan was "Repudiate the Administration's Acts," and he succeeds a Democrat who won the last regular election with a plurality of 21,000.

Risk defeated State Treasurer Antonio Prince of Woonsocket, Democratic supporter of the New Deal, which was the chief issue of the campaign, by a majority of more than 10,000. Complete returns for the 112 districts in the special election gave: Risk, 48,023; Prince, 35,984.

Risk succeeds Francis B. Condon, Democrat, who recently was appointed to the State Supreme Court. Interpretation of Returns.

Rhode Island political observers interpreted Risk's victory not only as a repudiation of President Roosevelt's policies, but also as disapproval of the party organization in the State, which took control of Rhode Island last November for the first time.

Prince sent his congratulations to Risk early today, but made no further statement. Risk said: "As far as the national administration and its effect on my campaign is concerned, I feel that the lack of co-ordination between the chief executive of the United States and the numerous governmental, alphabetical subdivisions, together with the chief executive's seeming lack of interest in the welfare of the war veterans, contributed to my election."

Prince loses Home Precinct. Prince was defeated in his home precinct, which went Democratic in the November election. Central Falls, birthplace of Risk, voted Republican for the first time in 20 years.

Pawtucket elected a Republican State Representative in a district normally overwhelmingly Democratic. East Providence elected a Republican State Senator by 1800 more votes than it did a year ago, and Newport elected its first Republican mayor in nearly 20 years.

12 Bond Issues Defeated. A check showed that of the bond issue propositions voted on five were approved, two were in doubt and 12 were defeated. The bond issues were strongly backed by Gov. Green and Prince, while Risk generally opposed the issuance of bonds except to raise $3,000,000 for unemployment relief. This was one of the proposals which were approved.

The First Congressional District embraces the Blackstone Valley, where most of the cotton mills are. Textile manufacturers in Rhode Island recently joined other New England mill owners in their opposition to the Government's cotton pressing tax. Many of the Blackstone Valley mills are closed and hundreds of mill workers in the district are either unemployed or on a part time basis. The district includes part of the City of Providence, the larger part being in the Second District.

Republicans Halt Returns; Democrats Insist They Mean Nothing. WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Rhode Island's election of a Republican Congressman was hailed by Republicans today as an indication of what will come later. Democrats insisted that the vote lacked national significance.

"It is the beginning of the end for the New Deal," said Representative Snell, Republican leader in the House. Representative Crowe of Indiana, vice-chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said the result was "probably just a quirk where a district is returning to the party it used to support."

C. E. MITCHELL'S STOCK SALE TO WIFE HELD FRAUDULENT

Tax Appeals Board Rules on Petition of Former National City Bank Head Involving $1,275,000 Claim on Income.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The alleged sale by Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank of New York, of stock to his wife to establish a loss for income tax purposes was held fraudulent today by the Board of Tax Appeals.

The board also ruled a payment received from the management fund of the National City Co. to be taxable income, and held Mitchell to have acted fraudulently in failing to report it.

On the other hand, his sale and repurchase of stock in the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. were held to be bona fide, and the loss sustained to be deductible.

Mitchell had appealed total income tax deficiency claims and penalties of $1,275,644 for 1929 and 1930. The board ordered redetermination of the deficiency based on its findings, allowing the $715,918 reduction for loss on the Anaconda stock.

The Government asserted Mitchell had an income of about $3,500,000 in 1929 and more than $750,000 in 1930 but paid no tax for either year.

Mitchell was acquitted of criminal charges in connection with the case and argued that his acquittal barred the Government from collecting any tax.

He resigned his position with the bank in February, 1933, following his testimony in the Senate Stock Market investigation of selling stock to establish a loss and keep from paying an income tax.

Mitchell had claimed a deduction of $2,872,305 as loss on the sale of the bank stock to his wife. In addition to the deduction for the loss on Anaconda, and had failed to report, the decision said, the receipt of $666,666 from the management fund of the National City Company.

His failure to report for taxation dividends paid in 1930 on the bank stock, sold to his wife was held to be fraudulent for that year.

Likewise, the Board ruled, over the dissenting opinion of one member, Charles P. Smith, that the failure of a jury in the Federal District Court in New York to convict him of fraud with intent to evade tax did not absolve him from the assessment of the 50 per cent fraud penalty.

Internal Revenue officials estimated the decision would permit the Government to collect about 95 per cent of the original total deficiency of $1,275,644.

MANIFESTO BARS "UNDESIRABLE ELEMENTS" DRIVEN FROM SMALL TOWNS. BERLIN, Aug. 7.—An official Nazi announcement proclaimed today that further measures would be taken to prevent "undesirable elements," especially Jews, from coming to Berlin for refuge.

The announcement said the measures have been drawn up by Count Wolf Hendrick von Helldorf, head of Berlin police, and Julius Lippert, Nazi commissar for Berlin, to halt the migration, described as "greater than ever before."

Driven from small towns by the Nazi anti-Semitic campaign, the refugees seek protection in Berlin, saying they have no place else to go unless they leave the Reich.

Despite a warning issued last week, the movement apparently persisted in such proportions that the city officials have decided to act.

Bavarian authorities at Bad Tölz yesterday closed the Park Hotel, head of Berlin police, and Julius Lippert, Nazi commissar for Berlin, to halt the migration, described as "greater than ever before."

TAX EXPERT URGES HEAVIER LEVIES ON BIG CORPORATIONS

No Evidence Anything Has Been Done to Check Concentration of Wealth, R. H. Jackson Says.

REVENUE COUNSEL AT SENATE HEARING

Recommends Roosevelt's Plan for Graduated Rates and Assessing Inter-corporate Dividends.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Adoption of an intercorporate dividend tax to prevent corporations from "defeating the purpose" of the proposed graduated corporation income tax was recommended to the Senate today.

"The House disregarded the President's suggestion in this respect," Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau, told the Senate Finance Committee in response to questioning. Asserting the graduated corporation income rates suggested by President Roosevelt would produce desirable consequences from many standpoints, Jackson said:

"If intercorporate dividends continue to be entirely exempted from taxation, there would be a powerful temptation for large corporations further to complicate their capital structures by organizing a series of operating subsidiaries, each one of which would be able to take advantage of the lower rates in the early brackets.

"This would not only defeat the purpose of the graduated tax, but would positively pervert it by further concentrating capital structures already too complicated. This may be prevented by taxing the dividends which would be received from such subsidiaries sufficiently to offset any tax advantage which might be derived from their creation."

Estimate on Revenue. Jackson estimated $39,700,000 in revenue could be raised by reducing to 85 per cent the present 100 per cent exemption of intercorporate dividends from the corporation income tax.

He said the 10 1/2 to 18 1/2 per cent rates suggested by the President—with small corporations bearing the lower levy—would not only produce more revenue, but would give tax relief to 95 per cent of all corporations. Only 5 per cent of the larger would sustain an additional burden, he said.

The House has turned down the corporation income rates recommended by Roosevelt. It voted instead to substitute a graduated tax of 13 1/2 to 14 1/2 for the existing flat at 13 1/2 per cent levy. Under the House plan the lower rate would apply to corporations with net incomes of $15,000 or less.

As for the graduated excess profits tax on corporations which the House approved in lieu of a wider range of income levies, Jackson said the "adoption of either would exclude the other." The excess profits tax was not recommended in the Roosevelt tax measure.

"They are inconsistent in principle, and while the application of both would be complicated," Jackson said, "it is by no means impossible. Each is an effort to measure the burden by ability to pay and each takes a different measure of ability." He said an excess profits tax did not take into consideration that "enjoyment of high rates of profit by small concerns during prosperous periods enables them better to withstand the heavier risks to which they are subject, and makes possible their growth."

Under the President's graduated corporation income scale, the witness said, 95 per cent of all firms expected to report net incomes for this year would "pay a smaller tax under such a schedule than under the flat rate now in effect." He argued that shifting a greater burden to the 5 per cent, or larger corporations, would "produce desirable consequences from many standpoints."

"A weakness of our income tax structure revealed by the depression is the violent fluctuation of Government revenues resulting therefrom," Jackson testified. "It is apparent that if we can combine a tax based on ability to pay with increased reliance for revenues upon that class of corporations whose income is most stable, and decrease our reliance for revenues upon those corporations whose income shows the greatest fluctuation, we move in the direction of stabilizing the revenues and evening out fluctuations because of size instead of levying rates simply to raise revenue, was not a dangerous philosophy."

"So far as the philosophy of the tax is concerned I do not wish to detract from or add to the President's message," Jackson replied. He said he did not believe the President suggested any particular point where higher surtaxes should start. He added he thought the President mentioned incomes of $1,000,000 merely as an "illustration." The House voted to increase surtaxes on individual incomes exceeding $50,000.

William McNair, Democratic Mayor of Pittsburgh, denounced the tax bill as "confiscatory" and the administration as a whole as "communistic." McNair said he opposed the tax bill because "it takes so much money out of Pittsburgh and gives us nothing back."

Calling the House tax bill a "gesture," Representative McFarlane (Dem.), Texas, recommended a substitute calling for a 9 1/2 per cent tax on all individual net incomes over $52,000 a year.

"We should put a ceiling on personal incomes," he said. "I believe $1000 a week net income is, under present conditions, ample."

Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., chairman of the Committee on Federal Finance of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the committee the chamber did not accept estimates that the measure as passed by the House would yield $270,000,000. Even if they were correct, he said, the gap between outlay and income could be narrowed with much less "economic injury" if the Government cut that much from expenditures.

He attacked the increased individual surtaxes and asserted a graduated corporation income tax "based solely on size, without reference to other factors, is indefensible."

Leaders Press for Action: Hope for Congress to Quit Aug. 17. Senate Democratic leaders strove today to shape the new tax bill for passage within a week, and if possible, adjourn Congress by Aug. 17.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, expressed the opinion that an adjournment by Aug. 17 was likely, declaring there would be a general disposition by Senators in his party to expedite the tax bill.

However, Senator Borah of Idaho, on hearing of the Democratic leadership decision to seek to outpace "riders" such as the soldiers' bonus and the Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing bill when the tax measure comes before the Senate, indicated a belief that Democratic leaders would not succeed in preventing debate on these issues.

"There may be full discussion," he said.

Bills in Conference. Some legislators said they believed Aug. 17 was too early to hope for adjournment. They pointed to major administration bills still in Senate-House conference, where attempts are being made to smooth out differences in the legislation.

With the idea of preventing the tax bill from becoming the battleground for a new attempt for immediate passage, the soldiers' bonus, the Democratic leaders decided yesterday to permit an early vote next January on the bonus.

The decision to fix a date in January for consideration of the bonus issue may serve, in the opinion of some, to avert a concerted drive to attach a bonus rider to the tax measure, although inflationists seem ready to offer amendments to increase the price of silver and to refinance farm mortgages with new currency.

After a meeting of bonus and inflation advocates last night, Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, speaking for himself, said he doubted if any bonus rider would be offered. He said a committee representing both bonus forces would meet with administration leaders.

Thomas called the promise to bring up the bonus in January a "big concession" and added: "I think the bonus matter is as good as settled right now."

However, Senator Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, indicated he would try to put his bill to refinance farm mortgages with $3,000,000,000 in new currency through either as a tax rider or as a separate bill.

To Move to Table. Democratic leaders will seek to block all riders, including amendments to change tariff rates, by moving to table them and thus automatically shut off debate. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the ma-

MANY MILLIONS IN STOCKS GIVEN AWAY RECENTLY

Such Gifts, Under Pending Tax Bill, Would Be Subject to Higher Levy Than at Present.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Corporation officers and large investors have given away millions of dollars' worth of stock in recent months, it is shown by reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission. Under the new tax bill now pending in Congress, such gifts would, if made in the future, be subject to heavily increased taxation.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. led the list, with a $1,000,000 gift of Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. shares in March, while Henry J. Fisher, chairman of the board of the McCall Corporation, New York publishers, was next with a $700,000 gift of McCall common in June.

The gifts are shown in connection with reports such officers, directors and holders of more than 10 per cent of a corporation's securities make monthly to the commission when their security holdings change. The reports show only gifts of securities. Names of the recipients are not disclosed.

Present Law and New Bill. Under existing law, only gifts of such bequests are taxed. The rates start at 3 per cent on the first taxable $10,000 and range to 45 per cent on the portion over $100,000. 126 DEAD OR MISSING IN FLOOD IN PHILIPPINES Belated Reports Indicate Damage of $1,500,000 in Central and Northern Luzon. By the Associated Press. MANILA, Aug. 7.—One hundred and 10 persons were reported dead or missing in or near the town of Dagupan, province of Pangasinan in last week's floods in Northern and Central Luzon Island. Correspondents of the Manila Daily Bulletin reported a total of 126 dead or missing in three provinces. The belated reports reached Manila today when communications were partly restored.

District engineers estimated the damage at more than $1,500,000. A town official reported 50 persons were drowned in Binalue, near Dagupan, and that 52 others perished in the capsizing of two fishing boats in the nearby Abolig River.

The Philippine Government and the Red Cross are doing relief work. Governor-General Frank Murphy yesterday proclaimed a state of emergency in several affected townships for the purpose of preventing food profiteering.

Utility Paid Hurley's Firm $100,000

of some 300,000 investors," he said. "Who paid the fee?" Black asked. "The company."

"Which is controlled by Hopson?" "I don't know that."

"His law firm was first retained by the company in 1933 to appear before the Senate Banking Committee against the Stock Exchange bill," he said.

"Being Singled Out." "Do you mind telling the amount of your fee?" "No, but I object to being singled out as a Republican. Why don't you call Martin Conboy?" (Conboy is a New York Democrat).

"We're not singling out anybody," Black replied. "You asked to appear, and were permitted. The next witness here will be Mr. Joseph P. Tumulty, and we don't intend to have any partisanship injected here."

Tumulty has practiced law in Washington since retiring as secretary to Wilson.

"Do you wish to state the amount of your fee or not?" "I don't mind stating it, but I object to being singled out."

Firm's Fee Was $50,000. "What was your fee in that matter?" "The fee paid my firm in that connection was $50,000."

"Did you state that fact when you appeared before the Senate Banking Committee?" "I wasn't asked."

"Did you tell them?" "I tell you I wasn't asked—I object to this sort of treatment."

Hurley was on his feet, shouting his answers. He was in a rage. Black ordered him to sit down.

"Did you or not?" "I don't mind stating it, but I object to being singled out as a Republican. Why don't you call Martin Conboy?"

"I'm not trying to put anything in your mouth but the truth. Did you tell the committee or not?" "I didn't know it then, and I don't know it now, and therefore I couldn't have told them. Why don't you ask whether I've stopped beating my wife—it's the same kind of a question."

"It's nothing of the kind," Black interposed, "and you know it."

He Tells of Fees. Hurley testified that his firm received $25,000 in 1934 for representing Associated before the Federal Trade Commission. The nature of the service rendered was not made clear.

The last $25,000 paid to Hurley's firm by A. G. E., bringing the total to $100,000 since Hurley left the Cabinet in March, 1933, was in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, Hurley said he got about 40 per cent of that.

"It was really very little," he said. "And any suggestion that I have lobbied is absurd. I haven't talked to a Senator or Representative about this measure except before committees. I don't think anyone would be foolish enough to pay a nickel for my influence with this Congress."

Under questions, the only services which Hurley could recall performing in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill was rendering an opinion that the bill is unconstitutional, and securing permission from Chairman Rayburn for Vice-President Burroughs of A. G. E., to appear before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Tumulty got along with the committee on much better terms. It was disclosed that he had answered a committee questionnaire, giving full particulars of his employment in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. He received from the American Waterworks Corporation, $6000; from the Commonwealth and Southern Power Co., $12,500; from the Public Service Co. of N. J., $2500; and from Cities Service Corporation, $12,500.

Most of this, he said, was for "advice." He advised them on the tactics to pursue in opposing the bill. He told them that, instead of merely opposing it, they should advocate a milder regulatory measure. The committee showed much interest in his payment to former Senator Moses, whose Washington activities have been the subject of some curiosity since he was defeated for reelection. Tumulty said he retained Moses largely for the purpose of ascertaining "the Congressional viewpoint."

Aware of Shortcomings. Explaining that "I am aware of my own shortcomings," Tumulty said he employed Ansberry and Walsh for actual legal help. Tumulty has very little actual law practice. Whatever his legal "shortcomings," answers to his questionnaire showed that his fees as "Washington representative" of several large corporations had been fat and frequent.

"I guess my practice is a little different from the average legal practice," he said smiling.

Tumulty told the committee the only members of Congress to whom he talked about the Wheeler-Rayburn bill were Senators Dietrich (Dem.), Ill.; Wheeler and Murray (Dem.) Mont., and Representative Rayburn. He said he made no effort to influence them, but merely called for information.

Hopson Search Goes On. Meantime, agents of both House and Senate Lobby Investigating Committees pursued their fruitless search for Howard C. Hopson, missing "master mind" of the Associated Gas and Electric Co., whom they wish to question about the company's $800,000 propaganda campaign against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

Rivalry between the House and Senate committees is assuming farcical aspects, with possession of Hopson standing out as the principal prize. Yesterday, when the tip was received that he was at the Shoreham Hotel, investigators for the respective committees leaped in their cars and raced out Connecticut avenue, one of the principal business thoroughfares, at a speed in excess of 50 miles an hour.

The race was repeated later in the day, although under less hazardous conditions, when the notion was advanced that Hopson was at Hurley's Virginia estate at Leesburg, 40 miles distance. This time the participants were House committee investigators and reporters.

It appears likely that if Hopson decides to appear, it will be before the House committee, which has been conspicuously gentler in its treatment of utility witnesses than the Senate committee.

Report on Telegrams. The Federal Communications Commission reported today that, in reply to questionnaires sent out by it, the Western Union has made a partial report showing that, in 11 towns 14,728 telegrams were sent to members of Congress about the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, of which all but three were sent and paid for by utility companies.

After a day of futile searching for Hopson, the House Rules Committee, headed by Representative O'Connor (Dem.), New York, sent investigators last night to seek him at Hurley's estate.

Denying he knew where Hopson was, Hurley called the procedure a "disgraceful outrage." O'Connor said that if Hopson was not found quickly it was because "Mr. Hurley has spirited him out of the city." He announced that Hurley would be subpoenaed before the Rules Committee.

Hours of searching of hotel lobbies culminated in the arrival last night at Hurley's home of William Collins and other House Committee agents.

"Is this a search of my house?" Hurley demanded. "If it is you are at liberty to search."

Collins said he had no authority to search, whereupon Hurley turned to newspaper men and asked why the investigators did not "look in the White House" for Hopson.

"Sick of Persecution." He mentioned that Basil O'Connor, brother of Chairman O'Connor and former law associate of President Roosevelt, had been retained by Associated Gas and Electric.

"I'm getting mighty sick of this persecution," Hurley said. "It makes a man wonder whether this is a free country."

Collins said Hurley "knew very well that Basil O'Connor was not employed in connection with any lobbying against the utilities bill."

Chairman O'Connor said: "If he doesn't know where Hopson is, then no one does."

Chairman O'Connor said its latest information as to the whereabouts of Hopson was that he was "somewhere in Maryland."

The chairman said hearings would be resumed tomorrow, with the inquiry turning probably to the Commonwealth and Southern Co. He said Wendell Wilkie, president of the company, "and whoever was his chief man in Washington during the utilities bill fight," likely would be questioned first.

Wilkie also headed the committee of utilities executives through which the private companies—not including Associated Gas & Electric, fought the legislation.

KING VISITS LAMBERT SLOOP; PRAISES SAIL AND CREW

"You Can Build Sailing Yachts in America," He Tells Owner of Yankee. By the Associated Press.

RYDE, Isle of Wight, Aug. 7.—The crew of the Boston sloop Yankee entered the third day of "Cowes Week" today encouraged by a tribute from King George. "You can build sailing yachts in America," the monarch said after the schooner, Atlantic, yesterday in response to an invitation from Gerard S. Lambert, owner of both boats, Lambert had extended the invitation when he dined on King George's steamer yacht, Victoria and Albert, Monday night.

The King, who often takes the wheel of his racing craft, Britannia, examined Yankee closely, commented on its fine lines and complimented the owner on the smartness of the Boston sloop's crew.

Later King George visited the Atlantic and called it a "lovely vessel."

According to veteran yachtsmen, the visit was the first by a British sovereign to an American racing vessel since Queen Victoria visited the schooner America at Cowes in 1851.

AUTOMATIC COPYRIGHT BILL PASSED BY SENATE Protects Works of Foreign Writers in U. S., but Revises Penalty for Infringement. By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Without a record vote, the Senate today passed a bill providing automatic copyright in this country of the works of foreign writers in major nations but eliminates the automatic penalty for infringements of copyrights.

The measure now goes to the House.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, sought in vain to amend the measure to retain what he declared "necessary protection" to authors, composers and producers. The bill repeals a section of the present law imposing a minimum $250 fine on infringers of copyrights without requiring the author or composer to prove actual damages. In its place was written a section requiring the author to prove actual damages to recover.

Senator Duffy (Dem.), Wisconsin, in charge of the bill, replying to Wagner, insisted the changes left the writers ample protection but prevented them from operating a "racket" by imposing penalties on "innocent infringers" such as book stores and small cafes, rather than those who might inadvertently carry copyrighted music.

GOVERNMENT SUES 9 MOVIE CONCERNS OVER CONTRACTS

Seeks to Enjoin Them from Continuing Practices Alleged in Anti-Trust Indictment Against 8.

WARNER BROS., OTHER COMPANIES NAMED

Petition Charges Effort to Keep First Run Films From Fanchon and Marco Affiliates.

Major motion picture producing and distributing companies which have refused to supply films to Fanchon and Marco for exhibition at the Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central Theaters have now refused to furnish films to interests allied with Fanchon and Marco in the operation of theaters in other cities, the Department of Justice alleged in an injunction suit filed here yesterday in Federal Court.

This situation, apparently, constituted the "urgency" which resulted in the assignment of Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey of Iowa to sit in St. Louis, at a hearing of the injunction suit, requested for Aug. 19.

Warner Bros. and Paramount Named. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., the Government alleged, have refused to renew contracts which expired about July 31 providing for exhibition of their pictures at the Roxy Theater in New York, the Strand in Los Angeles, the Manchester and Balboa in Long Beach, Cal., and the Studio-Phoenix, in Phoenix, Ariz., all of which are operated by interests affiliated with Fanchon and Marco.

Failure to renew these contracts was cited as another step in furtherance of a conspiracy to make it impossible for anyone except Warner Bros. or a corporation affiliated with that firm to operate the Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central in St. Louis. The Ambassador and the Grand Central are now closed.

The injunction suit named nine defendants, including Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., and R-K-O Distributing Co., and various affiliates of those corporations. All these defendants except one of the affiliated corporations were indicted here last January for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws in refusing to supply films for first run exhibition at the three St. Louis theaters.

Files to City to File Suit. Trial of the anti-trust indictment has been set by Federal Judge Moore for Sept. 30. He and Judge Davis are both away from the city so it was necessary to assign a Judge from another district for prompt hearing of the injunction suit. Special Assistant Attorney-General William R. Benham flew to St. Louis from Washington yesterday to file the suit.

The injunction suit asked that the defendant corporations be restrained from continuing the business practices complained of in the anti-trust indictment.

What Petition Alleges. The petition recited that in 1928 the three theaters were operated by Skouras Super Theaters Corporation, half of which was owned by Warner Bros. and half by Skouras Bros. Enterprises, Inc. About that time, the petition said, Paramount and Warner granted licenses to Skouras Super Theaters Corporation for exhibition of their films for periods ranging from 23 to 25 years.

But in July, 1932, the petition continues, Skouras Super Theaters, which had leased the theaters from St. Louis Properties Corporation, defaulted in payment of rent, and St. Louis Properties took possession of the theaters. Thereupon, the petition said, Warner Bros. and Paramount caused Skouras Super Theaters to cancel their license agreement "for the purpose of preventing any lessee of the theaters except Warner Bros. from procuring pictures."

In pursuance of the plan to exclude competition, the petition said, Warner Bros. bought up $375,000 (face value) of mortgage bonds against the theaters and tried, unsuccessfully, to put through a reorganization plan under which the bondholders would give them control.

Two Other Theaters Leased. Failing in that, the petition continued, Warner Bros., through a subsidiary, leased the Shubert-Rialto and Orpheum Theaters, "intending to use them only until they succeeded in destroying the motion picture business of the present lessees of the Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central Theaters, and acquiring those theaters for themselves." The petition said the Shubert-Rialto and Orpheum, designed for stage presentations, were not suitable for motion pictures. Leases on the Shubert-Rialto and

MIDGET RACING CARS HEARD IN LARGE PART OF THE CITY

Noise From Walsh Stadium Reaches as Far North as Page Boulevard.

Midget motor racing is the big noise, on nights when the races are run, or drivers work out their cars, at Walsh stadium on Oakland avenue.

Not only the adjacent South Side, but Forest Park and the West End, are a sounding board for the whirr of the motors, which make a din out of all proportion to their size. At the Municipal Theater, last night's audience for "The Desert Song" heard, instead of the hoofs of approaching camels, what sounded like the motor of a squadron of bombing planes. Dwellers as far north as Page boulevard, aroused by the strident sounds, speculated as to their source, few thinking that the little racing cars could be heard so far.

There will be more of the same, as the success of last night's racing program brought the announcement of further racing at the stadium. Cool weather, however, will send the sport indoors, to confine its noise to the arena and immediate vicinity.

Both Carron and the only other witness, Sam Fox, 1402 Arlington avenue, agreed the car was traveling only 15 to 20 miles an hour, and that Carron had ample opportunity to see her. Carron appealed.

BURNED BY MATCHES IN POCKET

William Ball, 61 years old, was seriously burned this morning when a box of matches in his pocket ignited, setting fire to his clothing, as he was walking down the steps of his home at 1014A Franklin avenue.

He told police, who extinguished the flames, that he had lighted his pipe a moment before. He was taken to City Hospital.

Heads Legion Postal Service Post. Arthur Quensen, 621 Dover place, has been elected commander of the Postal Service Post No. 123 of the American Legion. He succeeds Thomas F. McClellan.

Orpheum, the petition said, expire next Sept. 14. Other allegations in the petition repeated the charge in the anti-trust indictment that Warner Bros., in an effort to gain control of the three theaters, had threatened to obtain for themselves the whole available supply of pictures and to engage in ruinously unfair competition with anyone who might lease the theaters.

DANCER TESTIFIES SHE SAW FERRIS SHOOT LAWYER

Florence Jackson Contradicts Her Earlier Testimony in Detroit Trial of 4 for Murder.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 7.—Florence Jackson, 24 years old, one of the three women on trial with William Lee Ferris for the killing of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, admitted under cross-examination today that she saw Ferris stand over Dickinson's body and fire a shot.

This contradicted testimony Miss Jackson, a former burlesque dancer, gave on direct examination yesterday that she heard a shot but did not see the shooting, which took place in Rouge Park following an automobile ride.

Before court opened today, Florence Jackson's attorney announced that "under cross-examination my client will testify that Ferris stepped from the car and shot Dickinson in cold blood and that he did so without provocation."

If the prosecutor did not bring out this statement, Miss Jackson's attorney said he would do it himself on re-direct examination.

"Everyone for Himself." There have been indications throughout the trial that the attorneys for the four defendants had adopted a policy of "everyone for himself."

The other women defendants are Loretta Jackson, a sister of Florence, and Jean Miller.

On cross-examination today, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea asked Florence Jackson whether Ferris' statement that he "kept company" with both the Jackson sisters was true.

"No!" the young woman shouted.

She denied that she received any money from the robbery of Dickinson. She also denied previous statements that she threw Dickinson's vest out of the car after the four had abandoned his body in Rouge Park. She said Ferris gave her $10 after they had gone to Chicago, but she did not know where he obtained the money.

Exchange Between Lawyers. George S. Fitzgerald, attorney for Loretta Jackson and Jean Miller, appealed to the Court to make McCrea stop smiling at some of Florence Jackson's testimony.

"You make me laugh when I even look at you," McCrea said. "Well, you don't make me laugh with your hangman's attitude."

The spectators laughed, and Judge John A. Boyle threatened to clear the courtroom.

"This is no sideshow," the Judge said.

Florence testified that Ferris had sought in vain for "some papers" in the lawyer's pockets after he was shot to death in Rouge Park, where his body was found June 27. Attorneys for the women had said they would argue Ferris was seeking legal documents about which his companions knew nothing.

Dickinson's nephew, Chief Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court, was in Detroit as attorney for the estate of the late William H. Hawkey, former millionaire lumberman, when he made the acquaintance of Ferris and the three women and accompanied them on the ride that ended in his death.

WINNER IN CHICAGO ELECTION SEIZES OFFICE BY FORCE

Sledge Hammer Used as School Superintendent Enters Quarters, Ejects Predecessor.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—A sledge hammer was used yesterday in gaining for Noble J. Puffer physical possession of an office to which he was elected and sworn, while his predecessor, Otto F. Aken, was establishing himself "for the summer" in the disputed quarters.

Aken walked out of the office of County Superintendent of Schools after eight men smashed the door, ending a day and a half siege. The retiring Superintendent, defeated by Puffer in an election last fall, said that the proceedings constituted election by force, adding, "This gives me full protection of the law."

Puffer, who had taken up position in the outer offices, seized the inner room forthwith and ordered Aken not to remove any records. Aken said, "Call the police," then left without police or records.

Aken's quo warranto proceeding against Puffer will be heard Aug. 19. Aken contended that Puffer lacked required teaching experience for the superintendency. Puffer denied the charge.

MISSOURI U. FOOTBALL PLAYER KILLED IN AUTO

Miller was working for the State Highway Department. He was driving a State car which collided with a garage truck. His home was at Carrollton.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 7.—District Wardens of the State Game and Fish Department have reported for July over 100 arrests in the State. A majority of the arrests made have been for fishing without a license and possession of more than the legal limit of game fish.

During the month of June Wardens made 34 arrests and secured 34 convictions.

A State Game Warden last week arrested a Reynolds County citizen on a charge of dynamiting fish. The offense is alleged to have been committed on Logan Creek, near Ellington. Another citizen of the same county was arrested and convicted on a charge of shooting fish, drawing a fine of $41.10 in a Justice Court at Centerville. Wardens also have made a number of arrests lately on the Lower Osage, near the Bagnell Dam. From 50 to 400 fishermen are catching their limit in crappie daily immediately below the big dam, adding to the duties of the Lake-of-the-Ozarks Warden force.

TREASURER, SHORT, RESIGNS

Charleston, Mo., Protected by Bond, Mayor Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, Mo., Aug. 7.—C. L. Joslyn, City Treasurer, since October, 1927, resigned last night at a special session of the Council, after an audit covering six years indicated a shortage of $19,882. A special election to elect another Treasurer was called for Aug. 20.

Mayor E. E. Oliver said this morning: "Any criminal prosecution of Mr. Joslyn will be up to the bonding company. The city is protected by a $20,000 bond."

Reports indicate that the packers are playing both sides of the street in their arguments about who pays the processing tax," he said.

"Meat packers to date have filed 300 suits for recovery of hog processing taxes . . . upon the theory that the packers, not the consumer, are paying the tax . . . In answer to consumer protests, they pass out the story that the consumers pay the tax, and the tax is the cause of higher meat prices. The AAA wanted to take such representations to consumers at face value, but the packers didn't like that either."

DETROIT BUTCHERS ASK FOR AID IN MEAT STRIKE

Appeal to Prosecutor and Police Commissioner for Greater Protection of Shops.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 7.—Meat dealers, anticipating another week-end of picketing by housewives demanding lower prices, asked law enforcement agencies today for more protection.

Prosecutor McCrea told them strikers who resorted to illegal measures to enforce their boycott would be prosecuted.

"There is no reason why a man should close his business," McCrea informed butchers of suburban Hamtramck, who said their sales had declined 75 per cent as a result of the boycott.

"From the facts you present," McCrea told representatives of the butchers, "this strike appears to be a common law boycott—which is illegal."

He promised to summon heads of all law enforcement agencies in Wayne County to a special meeting with the women leaders of the strike, principal strike committees to discuss the situation.

Fourteen men and women have been arrested during disturbances in the last three weeks. A woman picket and a policeman were injured when a mob sought to pour kerosene on a truck load of meat.

The appeal to McCrea and a similar plea to Commissioner of Police Pickert, who asserted that "peace will be enforced," resulted from organization of an anti-boycott movement by butchers yesterday.

"We intend to end this strike in a hurry," Chairman Peter Skladzien announced after the leaders voted to override a minority's advice to let the boycott "run its course."

Repeated charges of butchers and packers that Communists inspired the strike, which they asserted had resulted in the loss of "tons of meat," resulted in an immediate investigation. Harry Colburn, chief investigator for the prosecutor, reported to McCrea that he had inquired into the activities of the strikers and found no evidences of communism.

Davis Replies to Packers. Chester C. Davis, Agricultural Adjustment Administrator, replied to the assertion of some Detroit packers that AAA processing taxes were largely responsible for existing meat prices.

"Reports indicate that the packers are playing both sides of the street in their arguments about who pays the processing tax," he said.

"Meat packers to date have filed 300 suits for recovery of hog processing taxes . . . upon the theory that the packers, not the consumer, are paying the tax . . . In answer to consumer protests, they pass out the story that the consumers pay the tax, and the tax is the cause of higher meat prices. The AAA wanted to take such representations to consumers at face value, but the packers didn't like that either."

JOHN H. JONES.

FIRST ARREST IN CITY FOR POSSESSING BOMB

Policeman Seizes Ex-Convict After He Deposits Dynamite Behind Movie.

The first arrest in St. Louis under the State law making it a felony to possess a bomb with intent to use it unlawfully occurred yesterday. John H. Jones, a former convict, was taken into custody near a lot behind the Strand Theater, 2000 Market street.

A warrant against Jones was issued this afternoon by Assistant Circuit Attorney Olan. The offense charged is punishable by a 10-year penitentiary sentence.

Patrolman James Sparks said he had seen Jones deposit a newspaper-wrapped bundle in the lot and cover it with weeds and linens. The bundle was found to contain five sticks of dynamite and a two-foot length of fuse.

Part of the same issue of the newspaper in which the bomb was wrapped was found in Jones' automobile which was parked nearby. A Negro who lives in the vicinity said he saw Jones walk into an alley behind the theater with a Negro boy who was then carrying the bundle. The man, he said, warned the boy to be careful because "it might go."

Jones said he had found the bundle in the alley and put it in the lot to get rid of it. There has been a dispute at the theater involving the employment of a motion picture operator.

Jones, 41 years old, gave an address in the 360 block of Valentine street. He has served terms at Booneville Reformatory and Leavenworth Penitentiary for automobile thefts.

Previous recommendations of the investigators, repeated in today's report, included those for the establishment of a Public Health Advisory Board, to serve without pay, and a combination of all health agencies into one unit. The report repeated the suggestion that a convalescent home with 180 beds be built and that a tuberculosis ward be added to County Hospital.

FAVORS FREE SERVICE BY COUNTY HOSPITAL

Federal Investigators' Report Urges Elimination of Paying Patients.

The recommendation that paying patients be discontinued at St. Louis County Hospital, due to lack of room, was contained in the written report of Dr. Fred Foard and Dr. Ernest Huber, U. S. Public Health representatives, to the St. Louis County Court today. The physicians made a survey of health conditions and hospital facilities in the county and their written report reiterated in general recommendations made orally last April.

About 10 per cent of the patients at the hospital pay for all or part of the services received. Due to lack of facilities, this service is needed for charitable cases, the report stated.

The investigators found that 50 per cent of the persons treated at the hospital were receiving relief, with 26 per cent of the remainder on the border line of destitution and 19 per cent dependent on others for support. The report recommended the employment of a qualified social service investigator to inquire into the financial condition of applicants for free service.

It was suggested that a medical program for part pay cases be instituted by some volunteer social organization, and that a definite fee scale be established for home treatment.

Previous recommendations of the investigators, repeated in today's report, included those for the establishment of a Public Health Advisory Board, to serve without pay, and a combination of all health agencies into one unit. The report repeated the suggestion that a convalescent home with 180 beds be built and that a tuberculosis ward be added to County Hospital.

CONSTABLE IGNORES TOWNSHIP DIVISION

A. J. Frank Says He Will Sue to Oust Officers of New County Political Units.

A. J. Frank, constable of the former Central Township, St. Louis County, which was divided into three new townships by the County Court July 15, announced today that he intended to operate throughout the old area. He also said he would undertake to file ouster suits against Leonard W. Browne and Andrew Tegethoff, who were appointed by the County Court, respectively, as constables of the new Jefferson and Clayton townships.

Prosecuting Attorney Anderson, who notified Frank yesterday that he would recognize Frank's authority only in the new Normandy Township, to which the court relegated Frank, said that the constable could not bring the ouster or quo warranto suits through his office. Frank could apply to Attorney-General McKittrick to bring the suits. Frank is a Republican, while Anderson, McKittrick and the majority of the County Court are Democrats.

Yesterday, Anderson refused to apply for warrants on charges of driving charges sought by deputies of Frank in cases arising outside of Normandy Township. Thereupon Anderson notified Frank in writing that the prosecutor's office would abide by a decision of Circuit Judge Mueller Monday, upholding the township division. The prosecutor's office would not issue warrants for Frank except in Normandy cases.

"All commissions and badges given to deputy constables by you, not in your jurisdiction, are to be declared null and void," Anderson told Frank. The prosecutor announced that if Frank did not confine his official activities to the Normandy district some form of legal proceeding would be instituted in an effort to make him do so.

Warrants are issued by Justices of the Peace on application of the Prosecuting Attorney or citizens. The three elective Justices of the old Central Township, Justices Lewis, Stecker and Weremeyer, all Republicans, have declared they would issue warrants only under the name of that township, for which they were commissioned. There are also Justices of the Peace in the three new townships appointed by the County Court.

ROBERT BROOKS GOES ABROAD FOR CITY SANITATION MEETING

Former St. Louis Street Director Also to Inspect New German Motor Highways.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. — America has much to learn from Europe concerning municipal sanitation methods and, instead of leading in the maintenance of clean cities, trails England and Germany, said Robert B. Brooks, consulting engineer of St. Louis, before sailing today on the S. S. President Roosevelt. He will attend the second international conference on public cleansing at Frankfurt-am-Main, Germany, as representative of American engineering societies.

Brooks, formerly Director of Streets and Sewers in St. Louis, attended the first of these international conferences at London in 1931. He has great admiration for the English method of "utilizing" garbage by filling in abandoned quarries and other depressions and treating it with chemicals so that no odors and rats result. Such spots are finally converted into playgrounds. He likewise admires the cleanliness of German streets.

Also, Brooks will investigate Germany's new "Reich motor tracks," a new national highway system, with no grade road intersections, now under construction as an unemployment solution.

The total of all 11 projects from Missouri that have been approved by Murray is $617,802 of which the WPA will contribute $528,968 if all proposals are approved in Washington.

Fisherman Guides Orphir To Great Sunken Hulk

Pulled Up Part of Wheelhouse After Lines Caught 9 Years Ago on Wreck, Which He Thinks Is Lusitania.

By GILBERT MCALLISTER. (Copyright, 1935.)

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Aug. 7. —An Irish fisherman, 72 years old, gave information to Capt. Henry Dell Russell which resulted in the discovery yesterday of an immense hulk lying 45 fathoms beneath the surface as he searched the corner in which Coast Guardsman L. McCarthy, eye witness of the disaster in 1915, Monday said the British liner lay. The fisherman is John Harrington. Nine years ago this month his fishing lines caught on an object far beneath the surface as he trolled for ling (a cod-like food fish). Unable to free his lines, he was forced to cut them. He dropped others which brought to the surface part of a great ship's wheelhouse. Harrington believed his salvage to be a part of the Lusitania and took his exact bearings.

Helps Orphir Find the Spot. Capt. Russell heard the fisherman's story. "I'll take you to the spot," Harrington promised, and Capt. Russell gave orders that the ship's course be set for the area. At 6 a. m. he hoisted anchor and steamed out of the harbor. The echo sounder began tapping out its sound waves recording the contour of the ocean floor.

Shortly before 9 o'clock, Harrington said, "this is about the line of bearings." He had scarcely finished the sentence when the line recorded on the graph shot upward, and we knew that an immense wreck lay beneath us. Immediately a marking buoy was sent overboard. As we moved slowly over the hulk, the echo sounder outlined projections of 15 fathoms on the graph in three positions. All day we crossed and recrossed the wreckage, sounding for its exact location. Without interruption,

Echo Sounder Stephens remained at his post, flanked by Capt. Russell and Chief Officer Bestic who correlated the graphs as rapidly as the echo sounder sent them forth. Diver to Go Down Today. So distinct were the outlines and so perfect the conditions for our operations that Capt. Russell was able to announce that the position of the wreck had been definitely determined. Chief Diver James Jarrett was instructed to make his first descent today in an attempt to identify the submerged vessel. The buoy was anchored with an eight-ton cement block. As we sailed back toward Kinsale to spend the night, the Orphir's crew cheered John Harrington whose fishing lines brought us to the spot under which the Lusitania may lie. Should his information lead to the discovery of the Cunard liner, his story will be one of the most strange and thrilling ever to spring from the sea.

Harrington was torpedoed aboard the merchantman Gallier in the Gulf of Genoa on the same day in May, 1915, on which the Lusitania sank with the loss of more than 1000 lives. The German submarine which sank the Gallier, however, did so without a single casualty. Seven torpedoes were sent across the vessel's bow, and the command came aboard after the eighth had scored a hit and the ship had begun to list. The U-boat commander chatted with the Gallier's captain before the men were ordered into lifeboats.

Harrington now lives with his wife in the house in which he was born. He told me yesterday that Monday night, before coming aboard the Orphir, "I went to my chapel in Kinsale and prayed that God would surely guide me to the Lusitania." Harrington first went to sea at 15, and was a sailor for 50 years. He speaks of every port the world over almost as intimately as he talks of Kinsale harbor.

By the Associated Press. — SIOUX FALLS, S. LETTER BY UTILITY OFFICIAL ON BOOKS USED IN SCHOOLS

Nebraska Power Co. Head's Statements Were Denounced by Senator Norris as Propaganda.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Aug. 7.—Friends of the late Dr. William E. Sealock, who was discharged from his post of president of the Omaha Municipal University a short time ago and then committed suicide, are calling attention to a letter written by James E. Davidson, who is president of the Nebraska Power Co. as well as chairman of the board of regents which discharged Sealock, in the controversy which still continues as to the real reason for ousting Dr. Sealock from the post which he had held four years.

As reported in these dispatches yesterday, Dr. Sealock, in a letter written to Senator Norris shortly before he swallowed poison, clearly expressed the conviction that in pursuing his course of academic freedom he had run counter to President Davidson's views as to what should be taught about public utilities.

The Nebraska Power Co. is a subsidiary of Electric Bond & Share Co., one of the biggest holding companies within the domain of the so-called "power trust" which Senator Norris has long made an object for special attack. Davidson was president of the National Electric Light Association, identified by the electrical industry as an "educational" organization and by the opponents of the "power trust" as an insidious political and propaganda machine. The letter was one bit of a mass of material made public through the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry three years ago.

About Textbooks Used. Addressed to Fred R. Jenkins, chairman of the Educational Committee, National Electric Light Association, Chicago, the Davidson letter stated:

I have read with a great deal of interest your letter of July 1, and also those of August 11 and 12 to Mr. Aylesworth about the work of the Education Committee doing everything possible to right the unfortunate situation that now exists in having textbooks that are in the hands of pupils of the schools containing erroneous and unfair information about the economics of our business, and particularly those pertaining to electric light and power companies, their financial matters, operations and policies.

I was very much surprised when I read Mr. Gilchrist's report on this condition. I think your idea is very good of having Dean Hellman handle this matter. It is fortunate, too, that Mr. Mullane will also help. "You have my very best wishes for a successful result in the very important work which you are undertaking."

Dr. Sealock was ousted as president of the Municipal University of Omaha at a meeting of the Board of Regents, of which Davidson is president, held in the Nebraska Power Company office June 27. No reason was given.

Nine days after Dr. Sealock's death, after repeated demands that they give a reason for dismissing him, the Board of Regents issued a statement that, "while Dr. Sealock had performed many of his duties excellently, it was felt that he did not possess the desired executive ability necessary to provide firm guidance to the University," an explanation which enraged students and alumni of the rapidly growing school who are circulating petitions in an attempt to remove the Regents.

Davidson on Letter. Asked about the letter to Jenkins, Davidson said he recalled some correspondence with him about research being done at various universities but pleaded that he could not remember the details after 10 years. A copy of the letter did not serve to refresh his memory, he said, unmoved by the reminder that the matter was common knowledge among those who followed published reports of the investigation. He identified "Mr. Gilchrist" as John Gilchrist, vice-president of Commonwealth Edison Company, Chicago, but refused to comment.

In a speech on the floor of the Senate, Senator Norris referring to Davidson's letter, asserted it is "only a part of the great propaganda that was undertaken by the power trust to change the textbooks in our public schools under the guise of some other reason, to get their agents to become friendly with the Boy Scouts, to get into the schools, to have things taught in the schools that would be friendly to the idea held by the great power trust."

"This letter of Mr. Davidson is simply a part of the program," Norris continued. "He said that the textbooks in the hands of the pupils contain erroneous information. Of course they give that as a reason. The real reason is that they want to write the textbooks for the children, as the evidence developed by the Federal Trade Commission shows that, if they could get their influence into the minds of the young, while they were forming their minds, while they were school boys and school girls, they would grow up to be men and women friendly to the ideas of the power trust."

Denial by Davidson. Asked about the charges of Senator Norris, Davidson, who formerly was president of the Boy Scout Council, said that neither that position nor his place as head of the board of regents had been used to promote the interests of the Nebraska Power Co. or any other utility.

Assuming the position that his private affairs and business matters were not proper subjects of inquiry, Davidson likewise refused to discuss the record of the Federal Trade Commission on the Nebraska Power Co.

Davidson, who started as a machine oiler, coal heaver and meter reader for an electric company at Port Huron, Mich., at 31 was vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Power and Light Co. of Portland, Ore. After serving with power companies in Vermont, he came to Omaha in 1917 at the age of 30 when the American Light and Power Co., a subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share Co., acquired the Omaha Electric Light and Power Co.

Light and Power Capital. The Omaha Light and Power Co., according to the Federal Trade Commission examiners, closed its books May 31, 1917, with a fixed capital of $6,432,000, and the Nebraska Power Co., American Light and Power Co. subsidiary, opened its books the next day with a fixed capital of $13,500,000, an arbitrary writeup, with no change in the amount or character of properties, of $7,068,000.

The franchise, obtained by a predecessor company, was carried on the books of the Omaha system at $2,055,000 and, without it, the amount of the assets acquired by the American Light and Power Co. was only $4,377,000.

An examiner for the Federal Trade Commission testified that the return to the American Light and Power Co. from the Nebraska Power Co. had been more than 55 percent for every year since 1921 through 1928. The Nebraska Power Co. assets had grown to $129,336,310 by Jan. 1, 1929, he stated.

In a recent statement, attacking the holding company bill as "socialistic," Davidson stated: "As an executive of a light and power company, I am willing now, as I always have been, to assume the responsibility for informing the public and our security holders of any threatened detrimental action, political or otherwise, against the company which I represent. One may call it propaganda or anything else."

RELIEF ROLL DECREASE IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY

July Follows Six Months Trend
—8531 Families Receiving Aid.

Following a six months' trend, relief rolls in St. Clair County, Ill., continued to decrease during July. The total number of families receiving aid at the beginning of the month was 9330, or 31,722 individuals, and at the close 8531, or 29,095 persons, according to a report by George Curry, County Relief Administrator. Families on the active relief rolls at the first of the month totaled 7629, and at the last 7742.

During the month 1133 families were removed from the rolls, while 234 were added, due to loss of employment, exhaustion of resources or reinstatement following their failure to make reapplication during May, June and July, when 1450 undeserving clients were dropped.

Supplementary relief was given to approximately 1000 families. In these the employed persons were not earning the amount of the relief budget that would be allotted them. They received grocery orders of a value to bring their income to the level prescribed by budgetary regulation.

St. Clair County relief budgets are now placed on age and sex basis. For children up to a year in age the budget is $3.95 per month. It is increased each year thereafter till at 6 it is $5. At 10 years it is $5.95 for a boy and $5.30 for a girl, and at 16 $8.10 for a boy and $6.35 for a girl. Male adults receive $6.45 and females $5.20. For aged and incapacitated adults the corresponding amounts are $5.20 and $4.60.

Expenditures for July totaled $290,890, of which $22,152 was for administration. Direct relief cost $221,296, and work relief, employing 1150 persons, $32,443. The allocation for August is $302,490, of which $40,000 is allowed for writing a week's extra grocery orders. All funds are supplied by the Federal Government.

Since January, 93 relief workers have been dropped, leaving the

Those killed were: E. N. Johnson, Wheeler, Ore., engineer; F. A. Walker, Wheeler, fireman; A. J. Both, Wheeler, brakeman; B. A. Curtain, Portland, brakeman; D. Fronk, Bridge, Ore., carpenter. Two others were injured.

Three Killed in Wreck of Train at Salda, Colo.

By the Associated Press.
SALIDA, Colo., Aug. 7.—The bodies of three men were recovered early today from the wreckage of a narrow-gauge freight train which jumped the tracks at a curve and plunged down a mountain side last night. Seven men were injured and officers of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad said others might be found.

E. E. Boots, brakeman, was found fatally injured under the locomotive. The other two victims were tentatively identified as Joe Richardson of Denver and Pueblo, Colo., and J. A. Johnson of Farmington, N. M.

R. K. Bradford, the railroad's superintendent of transportation, reported that Richardson and Johnson and the seven injured men were transients.

Bradford attributed the wreck to a broken air line, saying that Engineer L. R. Allen reported his brake would not work properly as the train started down a steep grade.

DECLARES NRA FURNISHES JOBS TO PATRONAGE MEN

Republican Congressman Says Thousands of Employees Do Nothing but Draw Pay.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Representative Roy O. Woodruff (Rep.) of Bay City, Mich., said today that President Roosevelt had demanded a temporary perpetuation of NRA "to justify the continued employment of thousands of Democratic patronage employees."

Woodruff referred to the administration as having created a "gigantic bureaucracy," and said that even after the Supreme Court invalidated the NRA thousands were kept on the payroll.

"As that decision immediately invalidated the entire NRA establishment and made it illegal to pay salaries to the thousands on its payroll," President Roosevelt demanded of Congress the enactment of a law perpetuating a skeleton until April 1, 1935," Woodruff said.

"This was done in order to justify the continued employment of thousands of Democratic patronage employees. This emergency legislation was quickly passed by both houses of Congress and signed by the President, the result being that thousands of these employees are sitting around offices doing absolutely nothing except draw their pay."

"The NRA still has space in 11 different buildings and the rural resettlement administration in seven buildings."

Woodruff said that though there had been some dismissals, "there are being constantly added to the payrolls of the Government far more than the number dismissed."

"As a matter of fact, there have been added to the Federal payrolls during this Democratic administration in the two short years it has been in power, more than 154,000 people. It is estimated by some, although definite information is almost impossible to obtain, because of the reluctance of those in power to disclose the facts, that 65,000 have been put on the payrolls in Washington alone."

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—William Montoux, 68 years old, and his wife, Anna, 73, were killed when fire trapped them on the third floor of their home early today.

Miss Amelia Montoux, 33, their daughter, was awakened by the smoke and tried to reach her parents, but was forced to leap for safety from a second-floor window.

The fire started on the first floor of the building about 1:30 a. m.

QUESTIONING OF HOPSON BEFORE TRIAL RULED OUT

New York Judge Calls Plan of Utility Stockholders "Unlimited Fishing Expedition."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Counsel for Howard C. Hopson, who is being sought for questioning by two congressional committees investigating public utility lobbying, won a second legal point yesterday.

Supreme Court Justice Lauer denied a motion for Hopson's examination before trial in a stockholders' suit which charges him and others with being responsible for the alleged loss of more than $172,000,000 by the General Gas & Electric Corporation.

peals Monday vacated an order directing Hopson to permit Federal income tax investigators to inspect records of five subsidiaries of the National Public Utilities Investing Corporation, of which he was president.

Justice Lauer held that in the form submitted the request for a pre-trial examination of Hopson would constitute "an unlimited fishing expedition."

FEDERAL TAX BILL ATTACKED

Standard of New Jersey Officers Write to Stockholders.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—W. F. Farish, chairman, and W. G. Eagle, president, of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, in a letter to stockholders, declare the proposed federal tax bill "accepts the new theory that the Government's power to raise revenues can be used to regulate business."

The letter continues: "If favoritism shown the small oil does not prove enough to accomplish the desired result, it would be a simple matter, once the principle has been adopted as a national policy, to extend it until the larger units are forced to integrate. This is manifestly unfair. It is class legislation. Consider the practical consequence of such a policy on you as an investor in the oil business."

CADETS WATCH ARMY'S AIR BOMBERS IN ACTION

300-Pound Missiles Dropped by Planes in Demonstration for West Point Seniors.

By the Associated Press.
FORT BENNING, Ga., Aug. 7.—Dropping bombs weighing 100 and 300 pounds, the Army Air Corps' huge air bombers yesterday simulated an attack on a wagon train and blew deep craters in the ground as 44 planes staged a demonstration for the West Point senior class.

The cadets are here on a tour of duty to witness demonstrations of modern weapons of war. The planes were brought here from Langley Field, Va., and Barksdale Field, Shreveport, La. They left immediately after the demonstrations for their bases.

An attack squadron opened the aerial show with machine gun fire on ground targets. This was followed by the dropping of 30-pound fragmentation bombs that made sieves of the targets.

Dropping of parachute dummy bombs by another squadron was the highlight of the show with the exception of the demonstration of the big bombers.

Eleven planes, flying about 50 feet off the ground, released 90 of the parachute bombs and climbed quickly out of danger. Waiting high in the clouds, a pursuit squadron dived in an attack maneuver.

A smoke screen was laid across the range of fire for the concealment of troop movements, effectively masking everything beyond 100 yards of the stand where sat the cadets and 1000 other spectators.

Whitewash was dropped to demonstrate a gas attack and the effect it would have on ground troops.

A pursuit group dived low over the stands and went through various aerial maneuvers.

WOMAN DROWNED IN FISH POOL

Thought to Have Fainted While Looking in Water.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Mary James, third wife of Robert S. James, was found dead yesterday in the yard of their home, her face submerged in a fish pool, apparently she had drowned.

Capt. Norris Stensland of the Sheriff's office said she apparently fainted while looking at the fish and fell in the pool. She had been married three months. James, proprietor of a beauty shop, said his second wife, Winona, died in a similar manner in Manitou, Colo. His first wife obtained a divorce.

inside your motor!

That's why you need Germ Processed Oil for safe lubrication—it maintains high film strength under extreme heat!

The heat of your cylinder walls ranges from 350° to 425° in Summer weather.

When you drive at 50 miles an hour, your wrist pin bearings heat up to 350°.

Your connecting rod bearings, at a speed of 50 miles an hour, reach a heat of 250°.

In hot weather, your crankcase "runs a temperature" over 225°.

WITH heats of 225° to 425° in your motor, you must have oil that maintains high film strength under extreme temperatures to get safe lubrication. Otherwise, the lubricating film ruptures and the bearings and cylinders suffer damaging wear.

Plain mineral oils have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing processes have even less. As motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

It's an absolute certainty that you'll get better motor protection with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Timken machine tests prove that it has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil and that heat above 225° does not lessen this advantage.

More proof—supervised road tests were made in identical cars fitted with the new alloy metal bearings used in many 1935 cars. The bearings lubricated with a high-quality plain mineral oil showed 45% more wear than those lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil.

You'll be certain your motor is safely lubricated even at high temperatures if you say "O. K.—Drain" and fill with Germ Processed, the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that never drains away!

PLEA MADE TO PUT TABLE ROCK DAM UNDER PWA

New Brief, Filed With
Army Engineer Markham, Says Allied Work Should Be Considered.

LISTS PROJECTS TO BE ACCOMPLISHED

Would Include 10 Miles of State Highways, Two
Bridges and Improving
Long Shoreline.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A new plea for Government development of a huge hydro-electric project on the White River at Table Rock, Mo., was filed yesterday with Major-General Edward M. Markham, chief Army engineer. The proposed dam would create a lake covering about 300,000 acres.

The brief, prepared by John T. Woodruff, president of the Springfield, Mo., Chamber of Commerce; W. W. Johnson and Louis W. Reps, was filed by Senator Bennett Champ Clark.

Supplementing several others already on file, the brief urged that activities related to the project be taken into consideration and that this view of it would broaden the base sufficiently to qualify Table Rock as a public works project.

Among the work the brief states would result from the project are: Ten miles of State highways through rugged country, $150,000.

Two bridges at a cost of $350,000 and country roads.

Five-mile extension of Missouri Pacific tracks, upwards of $500,000.

1000 Miles of Shoreline. Improvement of 1000 miles of shoreline, $5,000,000.

An application for $14,284,000 is pending for development of the hydro-electric project. The Empire District Electric Co., unit of the Doherty system, held prior rights on the Table Rock site for more than 12 years but recently lost its license for failure to commence construction.

The request to consider "activities related to the project itself," was made because "we understand the problem confronting us is whether under the public works program this project can qualify with respect to furnishing the maximum of work relief at a minimum of expenditure for materials."

Public works projects expenditures are limited to $1143 a year per man and the proposed Table Rock project would cost approximately $2000 a man, it has been estimated.

Employment for Many Men. The brief also says that sawmills in the region would begin operations immediately and that would result in the employment of hosts of men now unemployed in both Arkansas and Missouri.

Development of the hydro-electric project also would make possible the irrigation of the rice fields in Northern Arkansas, improve navigation on the White River, minimize soil erosion in the territory and result in an extensive and far-reaching plan of rural electrification, the petition says.

$600,000 IN EAST ST. LOUIS PARK BONDS SOLD AT PREMIUM

Superintendent Announces Dismissal July 24 of Injunction Restraining Issue.

An injunction order restraining the East St. Louis Park District from issuing $600,000 in bonds for the improvement of Lake Park, was dismissed July 24, by Circuit Judge Reis, it is announced today by Superintendent of Parks Emmet Griffin.

The bonds were issued Monday and sold to A. C. Allen of Chicago, highest of three bidders. He paid a premium of $18,550. The bonds were issued in $1000 denominations, at 5 per cent interest and maturing over a period of 20 years.

While no program has been announced for the expenditure of the money, it is expected it will be used to supplement Works Progress Administration grants. The bonds were voted in June, 1934, after PWA loan and grant totaling $1,159,000 had been rejected. A bond issue of $600,000 was voted in February for the improvement of the 1130-acre park.

Petition for Incorporation. A petition for a pro forma decree of incorporation was filed in Circuit Court today by the Missouri Non-Intoxicating Beer Retailers' Association, whose purpose, the petition set forth, is to establish a standardized code of ethics and trade customs for guidance of members. The names of 18 dealers were given as incorporators, including Arthur J. Kirchner, president; Andy Wegman, secretary, and Frank Balcerowicz, treasurer. G. Ralph Ernst was appointed by Judge Joynt as the Court's representative to investigate and report on the application.

THREE NEW BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED AT ZOO

Board of Control to Seek $72,000 PWA Grant—Structures to Cost $161,000.

Plans for construction of three new buildings at the Forest Park Zoo to house goats, camels, buffalo and other hoofed animals were announced today following a meeting of the Zoological Board of Control at the City Hall.

The buildings will cost $161,000 and the board intends to apply within a few days for a PWA grant of $72,450, or 45 per cent of the total.

Construction of the new buildings, it was estimated, would take about one year. They will be situated in the southeast quarter of the Zoo, near the Antelope House.

BANKS IN COUNTY AGREE TO CASH RELIEF WARRANTS

350 Unemployables to Get August Payments, 780 More to Be Provided For

Arrangements have been made with banks in St. Louis County to cash protested relief warrants issued for August to 350 unemployable persons, and the banks will be asked to continue this practice until the end of the year, to provide relief for 780 additional unemployables who will become wards of the County Court Sept. 1, Presiding Judge Thatcher said yesterday.

Announcement by State Relief Administrator Wallace Crossley that the 780 cases would be turned over to the County Relief Committee, was made yesterday as county officials were trying to arrange for care of the 350 persons already on the Court's rolls.

Up to yesterday the banks had refused to cash the county's tax anticipation warrants and recipients of the warrants had been advised by members of the Court to seek aid from the County Relief Committee. However, the committee is not permitted to give relief from State and Federal funds to unemployables, and it was this regulation which resulted in yesterday's order turning back the 780 cases.

NEW U. S. CRUISER QUINCY DAMAGED BY 5-HOUR FIRE

Blaze in Engine Room of $8,196,000 Vessel at Shipyard Where It Was Launched June 19.

By the Associated Press.

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 7.—A fire in the engine room of the recently launched U. S. S. Quincy was extinguished early today after a five-hour fight. Officials estimated damage of $100,000.

The 10,000-ton vessel, launched June 19, lay at a dock at the Fore River shipyard of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation.

Harry E. D. Gould, general manager of the shipyard, said the fire was thought to have started in the switchboard of the main cable room. Yard workmen attempted to extinguish the fire with the shipbuilding company's apparatus, but after about three hours of unsuccessful efforts called in the Quincy fire department.

The Quincy was built at the Fore River yard at a cost of $8,196,000. It is 578 feet long at the waterline, and of the latest type.

The letter received by Cramer was written on White House stationery, dated Aug. 6, and signed by Stephen Early, assistant secretary to the President.

It read: "I have been asked to acknowledge receipt of your telegram to the President under date of Aug. 4."

Louis 5-2 Favorite to Defeat Levinsky Tonight

SECONDS MAY TOSS TOWEL IN RING, WITH OFFICIAL O. K.

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 7. — Joe Louis, Detroit Negro, will out-weigh King Levinsky, Chicago, three-quarters of a pound for their heavyweight contest at White Sox ball park here tonight. Louis weighed 198½ pounds this afternoon while Levinsky tipped the scales at 197¾ pounds.

The two men pushed their way through a throng of sightseers in front of the Mallers building to get into the office of the Illinois Athletic Commission, where the weighing-in took place under the direction of Dr. Frank Lagorio, commission physician; Chairman Joe Triner of the State body, George Getz and Packy McFarland, commissioners.

They Speak—and Shake!
As the two men stood by the scales waiting for photographers to finish their work, neither spoke or looked at the other, but the weighing completed, Levinsky held out his hand to shake hands and after hesitation Louis grasped it, reached around with his left hand, patted Levinsky's arm and said "O. K. King." Later the two men, their managers and seconds were taken into Triner's office, where the chairman instructed both of them.

"I don't need to impress upon you boys the importance of this contest. We expect you to give us a good fight and a clean one. There can only be one winner and I hope the loser will be a good sport."

Seconds May Toss in Towel.
Then followed a discussion as to the interpretation of the rules and it was decided that the referee should break the men from clinches and that the seconds should determine if their man is too helpless to continue in the event that either of them should be hurt.

It was the Levinsky handlers who put out for that as against the referee or the commission determining if a fighter would be in condition to continue. Triner agreed but said: "Remember that if one of the boys' handlers fails to recognize his helplessness the commission will exercise its authority and stop the contest."

The referee and the judges will be named tonight in the office of Harry Grabner, secretary of the White Sox. The only speculation as to the referee centered about Dave Miller or Tom Gilmore. Miller referred in St. Louis a number of times.

All through the talk by Triner, Louis simply sat impassive and chewed gum, while one of Levinsky's seconds held a black cocker spaniel pup in his arms which the dog had named "Joe Louis."

They Have Met Before.
Some observers of Louis' pat on Levinsky's arm professed to see a show-back to an argument which the two men had in a gymnasium before Louis achieved prominence.

He was getting ready for a fight and the King frowned about it. "I really his actions disturbed Louis, who told him to get out, that he 'Louis' never bothered another fighter when he was getting ready for a contest, to which Levinsky replied, "You're no fighter."

This is reported to have said, "No? Well, I'll knock you out any time we get into the ring."

So it was felt that Louis' appearance on Page 2, Column 5.

Browns Again Idle; Indians Here Tomorrow

THE Browns again were idle this afternoon. Tomorrow Manager Hornsby's club opens a six-game, four-day series with the Cleveland Indians, with a doubleheader. The second twin bill will be played Sunday. It will be the first appearance of the Indians here under their new manager, Steve Neill.

Records Give Detroit Negro Edge; Crowd of 50,000 to See Fight

By John E. Wray.
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—A wild swing may ruin a million-dollar future for Joe Louis, so-called Brown Bomber of Detroit, in his ten-round battle tonight at Comiskey Park against King Levinsky, thrower of eccentric haymakers. The fighter whose meteoric rise has gripped the ring world is taking a chance of losing not only fame, but a fortune of major proportions.

For, while Louis is favorite to win at 2½ to 1, he will be opposed to a man who throws them from anywhere with great potency. The boxer who interrupts the trajectory of one of his wild ones is apt to be separated momentarily from his intelligence.

Louis can't afford that. As the outstanding young fighter of the whole world, a boxer with a Dempsey punch and a Fitzsimmons noodle, he is the heir-apparent to the title and the million dollars that should go with it. He is, in fact, the fighter the world seems to have been waiting for, since Dempsey's sun went down.

According to the prevailing belief, this will be a great fight. More than 250 visiting newspaper men have working press accommodations for the show and the management expects 50,000 persons to be at ringside or within binocular distance thereof. And 50,000 persons can't be wrong in expecting a great battle. Or can they?

Can Joe Louis Take It?
As we get it, the 50,000 persons are coming to this fight more in the expectation of seeing Louis prove himself in a final test, than of seeing the Kingfish fight a winning battle.

In the minds of most ring followers who have checked the career of this tan-colored young man of 21, the only respect in which Louis has not proved himself is in the department of the interior. That is to say—can he take it?

Conflicting views are in circulation as to Joe's insides. There is one instance of record which this writer encountered. The party was a doctor with a pugilistic interest. He had seen Louis in one fight early in his career. He decided that Louis did not like it where it hurts.

On the other hand there are those who point to one fight in which Louis was floored several times by an opponent and got up to win. There are still others who say he probably has a sensitive jaw because one sparring partner some months ago floored him in a workout. Tonight, all these debates as to his ability to stand punishment may be settled—for the Kingfish can hurt if he lands.

Kingfish in Fine Condition.
This writer can not believe that Louis is in any serious danger of losing prestige by his battle tonight. His opponent is a big, good-natured New Foundland dog type of fellow, in splendid condition to be sure, but of a clowning nature.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Joe Louis' Fight Schedule.

BEATING Kingfish Levinsky is just one little hurdle of the many Joe Louis, the cafe-au-lait man-hander of Detroit, will have to take in the next few months, before Jimmy Braddock consents to give him a title contest.

In September and again in October, Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club, New York, is planning two more battles which should swell Joe's finances by at least $200,000. Not such a bad haul for Joe—if he can take it.

Art Lasky, at one time considered the most promising challenger for the title, will probably be Joe's opponent in New York (outdoors) on Sept. 11. This has not been announced, but Jacobs and Morris Lasky, Art's brother, have talked it over here. Lasky will not refuse; Joe will not run out—provided he beats Levinsky, of course.

Max Baer Wants $200,000.
FOLLOWING a successful fight with Lasky the next battle contemplated outdoors in New

HOW BOXERS COMPARE

Equipped by nature with the physical requirements of speed and power in punching, trained by one of the greatest boxers of other days, Jack Blackburn, and endowed with an emotionless expressionless face, he has skill that his opponent lacks and a fighting disposition that the Kingfish will never attain.

Not even though he has had six years or more the advantage of experience, is Levinsky entitled to rely on this for an "edge."

Levinaky, his fights have shown, is just a big, tough, game fellow whose vaunted knockout punch is not so dangerous: Looking through his record it is hard to find where he has stopped any good man. Hans Birkie appears to be about the best of a very ordinary lot of kayoes in his record.

Has Lost Many Fights.
On the other hand he has lost to any number of fighters, Carnera, whom Louis stopped decisively and quickly, twice defeated Levinsky, Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko (three times), Jimmy Slattery, Ace Hudkins, Mickey Walker and others have outpointed and even out-fought the Kingfish. Max Baer not so long ago cuffed him down for a 10 count in two rounds.

His past contains little to bear out the hope of 50,000 customers (more or less) that Levinsky will give Louis a real battle.

On the other hand, the remarkable record of Louis speaks for itself. Eighteen knockouts of 22 professional bouts, one of his victims being the former champion, Primo Carnera, all within a year, account for his favoritism.

Of his record, however, it must

The latest arrivals were led by Capt. P. B. Sanger, aide-camp to the Maharajah of Kashmir, Capt. Sanger, red at eight goals, is considered the leading player in India.

He was accompanied by the towering Capt. Humphrey Guinness and Eric Tyrrell-Martin, rated eight goals apiece on handicap. Capt. Michael P. Ansell and H. C. Walford, six and seven goals, respectively, preceded them here.

If the Englishmen, representing the Hurlingham Club, succeeded in winning the title, it will be the first time since pre-war days the trick has been turned. Texas Player Is Eliminated in Junior Tennis
CULVER, Ind., Aug. 7.—The first upset in the national junior and boys tennis championships was recorded today as Robert Underwood of Los Angeles, unseeded, defeated Edgar Weller, Austin, Tex., seeded No. 4, 6-2, 9-7, in their fourth round match.

Underwood's speed from the baseline and his passing shots were the deciding factor in the match. He was the first player in the junior division to reach the quarter-finals.

Joseph Fishback, New York seeded third in the boys' singles, entered the quarter-finals with an easy straight set victory over David Johnson, Washington, 6-1, 6-1.

TWO TRACK STARS ARE EXPELLED AT L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 7.—Truman Thomas and E. A. Black, two of Louisiana State University's outstanding track stars, have been announced as definitely expelled from the institution "for infractions of disciplinary rules and for the best interests of the university."

The announcement was a severe blow to university 1936 track hopes, as Thomas promised to develop into one of the nation's greatest hurdlers, and Black was a stellar quarter-miler, and understudy to Glenn "Slat" Hardin. Thomas was not eligible to compete last season. He is from Houston, Tex. Black from Fort Worth.

JOYCE WETHERED AND ROGER LORD WIN EXHIBITION FOURSOME HERE

The Passing Show.
JOYCE WETHERED, the golfing queen, was seen upon our local links on Tuesday afternoon.

And to the mine-run golfing dubs To see the lady swing her clubs, It really was a boon.

Against the well-known adage that A woman's place is in the flat, The golfers raise their voice, For every honest golfer thinks A woman's place is on the links, If she can play like Joyce.

Ready, Aim, Fire.
With Paul Derringer, Gene Schott and "Ramrod" Nelson doing the stunts, it is any wonder that the Cincinnati Reds have been going great guns?

Andy Lotshaw claims he used 17½ miles of tape and gauze last year as trainer of the Cubs. But they didn't get anywhere until Owner Wrigley cut out the red tape and put Charley Grimm in full charge.

By Dent McSkimming.
"World's greatest" is a title that's usually open to challenge, but if it were within the province of the 500 persons who watched Joyce Wethered's exhibition at Algonquin Golf Club yesterday to definitely and finally settle the question, the crown certainly would be awarded the English girl. The 500 who trudged up and down the sun scorched course were very obviously charmed by the visitor's technique and they hung about the rim of the eighteenth green at the conclusion of the match, sorry the performance was ended and loath to permit her to escape.

"Most amazingly graceful golfer I have ever watched," volunteered Don Anderson, referee, master of ceremonies and official flag-holder for the foursome.

"She makes an art of golf," said Roger Lord, Algonquin Club member who paired with the English girl against Miss Sara Louise Guth and A. Goller's Gallery.

Gallery comment (and there was a constant flow of it) was of a like nature, expressed with less reserve. It was a golfer's gallery, made up of golf players who came to watch and study a stylist who has drawn praise from the leading professionals on both sides of the Atlantic. They were watching her feet, her wrists, the length of her back swing, her follow-through; they made note of how much turf she took with her irons, how she bit into the ball with her approach shots and how she gauged her putts. They didn't miss a thing, and what they saw delighted them.

Miss Wethered, a professional now, on tour of the United States, assured her partners she enjoyed the match thoroughly. She was delighted with St. Louis and was happy that her itinerary had been changed so that she could come here, although this city was not on her original list. After viewing "Desert Song" at Municipal Opera last night, she was entranced for California where she is booked to play several exhibition matches. Her first will be at Santa Anita, where she has a perfect right to complain about the greens," said Roger Lord last night. "For they were lightning fast as a result of the heat, but she didn't find fault with them or anything else. She quickly adapted her game to conditions and played the sort of golf we expected of her."

Miss Wethered's driving has been a source of much favorable comment. She has been called a tremendous hitter from the tee.

"It wasn't the distance of her drives that impressed me," said Lord, "but the astonishing accuracy with which she sent the ball down the middle of the fairway. Out of her 18 tee shots only two deviated so much as a few yards away from dead center. And you saw what she did when she sliced on No. 15; made an amazing recovery, lifting her back of the head with her first shot, and at times hit a longer ball, but her second was not so unerringly placed and the result was that her medal score, 41-42, was eight strokes higher than the English girl's 38-37 for a total.

Lord's 36-39 matched his partner's 75, while Bockenkamp took a 78. Miss Wethered's 75 cut two strokes off the course record for women.

The Wethered-Lord combination won the first hole and was never doubt thereafter, ending the match on the twelfth, winning 8 and 6, but finishing out the 18 holes.

"I liked her game throughout," said Mrs. I. S. Hyman, one of the interested gallery. "Her handling of approach shots intrigued me most. She seems gifted with remarkably strong, yet flexible forearms, wrists and hands, and she uses them. I should say that her swing, even from the tee, is not really full, and it doesn't need to be because of this fine use of arms. Beautiful golf style."

The obvious perfection of Miss Wethered's game aroused much comment regarding the question: Can a top-notch woman golfer beat a top-notch man? And there were lots of champions for the cause of the ladies.

Algonquin Club certainly performed a service for golfers of the St. Louis district in making Miss Wethered's appearance here possible.

"Doesn't she remind you of Mrs. Mahlon Wallace?" was heard more than once. Miss Wethered does bear a striking resemblance to the many times champion of St. Louis District.

Kansas Ex-Convict Then Walks to Porch of Restaurant and Ends Life.

By the Associated Press.
BELOIT, Kan., Aug. 7.—An ex-convict, blaming his wife's parents for his marital troubles, killed them yesterday, wounded his wife and son and committed suicide.

Ralph James, 35 years old, met his estranged wife, Mrs. Helen James, 23, at her parents' restaurant. She carried their son, Bobby, 2, in her arms and the bullet James fired into her back as she turned away also entered the child's abdomen.

Rushing to the kitchen, James shot and killed Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Gould, walked to a porch and sent a bullet through his head. Mrs. James and the boy are in a serious condition.

After Mrs. James left her husband several weeks ago, alleging he had beaten her, Gould had a charge of assault and battery filed against James. James served a term in the Kansas penitentiary for robbery.

4 INSANE CONVICTS FROM FULTON, MO., CAUGHT BY POSSE

One Returned Voluntarily
After Break Saturday Night and Another Is Still at Large.

FULTON, Mo., Aug. 7.—Four of the six criminally insane convicts who escaped from the State Hospital here Saturday night, were captured by a posse of 50 State and county officers yesterday in a narrow strip of woods along the Missouri River near Tobbetts, Mo.

Search for the last fugitive, George R. Rogers, 55 years old, of St. Louis, continued east of here. The other man, Henry St. John, 28, of St. Louis, returned a few hours after the break because his bad eyesight had prevented him from keeping up with the others in their flight.

The men captured yesterday told authorities they had not seen Rogers since they fled from the asylum. Possemen, however, were confident he had not been able to break through the guard thrown about the area.

First reports of the fugitives' whereabouts came yesterday morning when a Negro watchman reported seeing two men attempt to board a St. Louis-bound train near Mokana, Mo. Prevented by members of the train crew, the men fled into the nearby woods.

Possemen converged and began a search of the woods, exhausted after hours of dodging in the underbrush. Oliver Hamilton, 35, St. Louis gangster, serving a life term for murder, and Edward Marcum, 26, also of St. Louis, surrendered.

Officers then concentrated their search in the bottom land woods and succeeded in routing two more of the convicts from cover. They were Paul E. McCarrick, 37, of Verona, Mo., and William Smith, 35, of St. Louis.

McCarrick, alias McCormick, had led the escape from the hospital. With a file used in hospital psychiatric work, he threatened two attendants and obtained keys with which he released his five companions.

Back at the hospital, the four men talked freely of their efforts to evade capture. They said they had been in the vicinity of Mokana since Sunday and had no food until Monday night, when one of them ventured into the town and purchased some sausage. It had been their intention, they said, to board a freight train to St. Louis.

MRS. GEORGE CLUETT JR. GOES TO RENO TO SEEK DIVORCE

She is at Dude Ranch Preparing to Sue Troy, N. Y., Collar Manufacturer.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Troy heard today that Mrs. George Cluett Jr. had established residence on a dude ranch near Reno, Nev., preparatory to filing a divorce suit. Reports that an action would be filed "in about five weeks" were confirmed by George Springmeyer, Reno attorney retained by Mrs. Cluett.

Cluett, a member of the family that has controlled Cluett, Peabody Co., shirt and collar manufacturers, for several generations, is at Hyannis on Cape Cod, where he is establishing a passenger plane service to and from the Cape. He is a son of the late Walter Cluett. Mr. and Mrs. Cluett have been married for 10 years and have two children. She is the former Miss Marion Ticknor of Great Barrington, Mass., and is a top-flight golfer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Sunday stage performances were authorized yesterday by the Councils of the Actors' Equity Association and Choral Equity, the two theatrical labor unions. Under the rulings actors and members of the chorus must be paid double time on Sunday and be given a day off each week. The State Legislature, at its last session, passed a measure permitting Sunday shows.

FARMER'S WIFE SAYS AAA MEANS PROHIBITIVE PRICES

Mrs. G. B. Simmons of Marshall, Mo., Speaks Before Women's Republican Club.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Assailing the national administration as a "poisonous bureaucratic mess of Communism," Mrs. George B. Simmons of Marshall, Mo., declared last night that the AAA means "regimentation and serfdom" for the farmer and prohibitive food prices for the consumer.

Mrs. Simmons, farmer's wife and poultry writer, said in an address before the women's National Republican Club, that she and her husband had been reared in Democratic families, but had lost faith in the New Deal. Her speech was broadcast over the WEAF-NBC network.

"The things being done by this administration for us farmers need to have made sense according to any principles of good farm management we have ever known," she said, "and my husband always managed to make something with his farming until this strange New Deal began to be shuffled out to us."

"It seemed to us that these brain-trusters down at Washington cared much more for tickling their own vanity by putting their addle-headed theories over us, than they do for being faithful to the kind of labor and thrift that we knew had made our America great in the past."

"I say this to you housewives in our towns: You are not helping us farm people or our nation when you submit to these food taxes, and the kindest thing for all concerned, in the long run, would be for you to refuse to pay them any longer."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
Man About to Enter Car Shot.
TOLEDO, O., Aug. 7.—Police sought a motive today for the mysterious killing of Huito Romolo, 41 years old, operator of the Main Motor Sales store here. Romolo was shot last night, officers said, by a man with whom he had been riding in an automobile. The unidentified slayer escaped. The police said a youth told them the two men drove up to an ice cream store, and that Romolo, after purchasing a quart of ice cream, walked back to the car and was shot just as he stepped on the running board.

MUSSOLINI CALLS MORE OFFICERS; ITALIANS ABROAD ENLIST IN ARMY

Prospective Military Leaders From Classes From 1909 to 1914 Ordered to Finish Study at Training Camps.

NEW YORK GROUP PLEDGES ITS AID

People, in Demonstrations at San Remo, Asti, Milan and Other Places, Acclaim Premier and His Ethiopian Policy.

ROME, Aug. 7.—All prospective army officers of the classes from 1909 to 1914 (men born in those years) who have not completed officers' training were ordered by the War Department today to resume it by Nov. 15. They will complete the training by next May 15.

The order also applies to pensioned officers under 39 who "still aspire" to readmission to military service, as well as officers who have left the service because of foreign residence.

The order is another step in the general program to provide Italy with the million men it has decided are necessary to meet any contingency in the Ethiopian dispute.

Must Drop Everything. These embryo officers, including thousands of men with professional degrees and regular army men who have reached the subaltern rank, must drop everything to finish their training so that they may enter Premier Mussolini's armies.

The order also calls out all men 17 years old or older who have not served in the regular army because they received training in military academies.

The order followed an announcement from the Italian embassy in London that several thousand soldiers living abroad had increased the list of volunteers for Italy's East African army.

It was announced that Mussolini had received a telegram from the Former Combatants' Association of Italians, reporting that "Italian combatants of New York, in extraordinary assembly, affirmed indefatigable adherence to Your Excellency and readiness to give blood for the triumph of the inalienable right of the Italian nation."

Popular Demonstrations. Turbulent demonstrations were held at San Remo and Asti, headquarters for the two newly-constituted divisions of regulars, and Milan and surrounding communities, from which the recruits will be drawn. The people swarmed into the streets, singing Fascist hymns, cheering and waving banners and placards acclaiming Mussolini.

The press alternated in heaping praise on the "unwavering determination" of Italy and flinging derisive phrases at Great Britain and the League of Nations.

Il Popolo di Roma said a calm survey undoubtedly would disclose that British policy in the last few weeks had "great weight on the scales of events—but not precisely to make them overflow on the side of peace."

Informed circles regarded it as significant that the two new divisions of regulars were being drawn from northern Italy, close to the French border.

They said this fact served to recall recent conversations between Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, chief of the French Army general staff, and Gen. Badoglio, second in command of the Italian armies, and to demonstrate growing friendship between France and Italy.

240,000 Italians Have Passed Through Suez Canal. (Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.) PORT SAID, Egypt, Aug. 7.—About 240,000 Italian soldiers and laborers have passed through the Suez Canal in the last six months, en route to East Africa, official figures disclose.

In a single day recently, nine Italian transports laden with soldiers, airplanes, tanks and artillery ammunition made the passage from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea.

Not all Italian transports are bound for East Africa, however. The statistics show that in the last three weeks, six large Italian steamers carrying more than 5000 Italian soldiers suffering from malaria, dysentery and typhoid made the passage for Italy.

Communist for New Party in U. S. To Check 'Fascism in Disguise'

Bulgarian Delegate at Reds' Congress Says Capitalistic Victory in America Would Affect Workers Throughout World.

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—Creation of a workers' and farmers' party in the United States to prevent the rise of Fascism is a vital necessity not only for America but for the world, Georgi Dimitroff, Bulgarian Communist, told the seventh congress of the Third Internationale yesterday.

"A victory for Fascism in America would mean a strengthening of the regime of exploitation and the movement for crushing the workers," he said. "This would have a profound effect on the world as a whole."

If Fascism is allowed to continue penetrating the masses disappointed with the two major parties it will become a "serious and immediate threat," Dimitroff said.

In these circumstances, he said, American workers and farmers must abandon the "capitalistic parties" and unite in a new party which would be "neither Socialist nor Communist, but must be anti-Fascist and not anti-Communist."

Dimitroff said the party must attack banks, trusts and monopolies; must fight for unemployment insurance, abolition of farmers' debts, and equal rights for Negroes; demand satisfaction of war veterans' needs and defend the interests of professions, small merchants and manual laborers.

This party, he said, must be the third party in America instead of the Fascist party, and must name candidates for the Senate and House. He suggested mass meetings in America to lay the foundation for the party.

His recommendations followed closely the outline of a movement for the third party, given by William Z. Foster, former Communist candidate for President of the United States, in a recent article in the magazine of the Communist Internationale.

Dimitroff described American Fascism as "Fascism in disguise," representing itself as 100 per cent Americanism but following the same general lines as Fascism abroad.

"Wooden Horse" Tactics. Recalling the use of a wooden horse to mislead the defenders of Troy, the speaker said, "Revolutionary workers must not hesitate to use similar tactics when dealing with Fascist enemies, who protect themselves against the people behind a living wall of cutthroats."

Dimitroff said conditions in many "capitalistic" countries were near the point where formation of a united front in governments, with Communist participation, was necessary.

He emphasized, however, that such governments would be considered only temporary agencies by the Communists, since "only Soviet governments can bring final salvation."

Fravda, official Communist organ, today described the United States as an example of the countries "where the productive forces are suffocating inside the narrow frames of capitalism."

is proceeding to Massaua, Eritrea, as a hospital ship after reconditioning.

At Alexandria and other ports, Italian officials are chartering every available steamer for use as a transport.

Officials estimated that in the last three months, the Italian Government has paid the Suez administration $10,000,000 in canal tolls on war transports.

Shipping circles in this seaport on the north end of the canal said that American, British and other foreign oil and timber concerns were declining to sell goods to Italians unless they paid cash.

Greek as Neutral Member of Conciliation Commission. By the Associated Press. PARIS, Aug. 7.—Nicolas Socrates Politis of Greece was understood today to have accepted tentatively a nomination as fifth and neutral member of the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation and arbitration commission.

Premier Laval of France obtained the tentative acceptance. Politis told the French Premier he would serve on the commission if he saw a possibility of moderating the demands of both sides. It was understood he would attempt to arrange such moderation before officially accepting the appointment.

BORAH ATTACKS COMPROMISE ON AAA PROCESSING SUITS Says Conference Agreement Is Virtual Nullification of Amendment Senate Adopted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Signs of a new controversy on the question of permitting suits to recover processing taxes appeared today when Senator Borah of Idaho criticized a proposed compromise on the subject.

The compromise was reached by conferees from Senate and House named to reconcile differences in the amendments as approved by the two houses. Borah declared the agreement amounted to virtual nullification of an amendment the Senate had attached to the legislation.

The conference report has gone to the House for ratification and later will be sent to the Senate.

In passing the AAA bill originally, the House barred all processors from suing to recover taxes paid. The Senate, however, permitted suits to be filed on a showing by the processor that he had not passed on the tax to the producer or consumer.

Out of the conference came a version stating that in event the AAA processing taxes are held invalid, claims for rebate may be submitted to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who will pass on the facts. Only in event of error or "capricious" judgment by him may an appeal be taken to courts.

U. S. REPLY CALMS JAPANESE Newspaper Says Caricature Incident Will Be Dropped.

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—The newspaper Asahi said today that the Foreign Office had decided to consider the Vanity Fair incident closed "in view of the sincere sympathy in the attitude of the (American) State Department."

A Foreign Office spokesman was non-committal, saying he lacked full reports from Ambassador Hiroshi Saito at Washington in connection with "insults" to the Japanese Imperial house in the August issue of the magazine. One of the Japanese objections was to a caricature of Emperor Hirohito.

BRITAIN SENDS PROTEST AGAINST ITALIAN PRESS

Objects, in Note to Rome, to Strong Attacks on London Government.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—An official source disclosed today that the British Government had made "strong representations" to Italy on July 26 regarding "the recent violent attacks in the Italian press against Great Britain."

The representations were made through Ambassador Grandi of Italy by officials at the Foreign Office and it was stated he promised to inform his Government of the British attitude. Since that time, according to the same source, the British Government has received no reply from Italy.

Ramsay MacDonald, Lord President of the Council, became acting Prime Minister today.

The Government decided to let France take the lead in next week's three-Power talks at Paris. The decision was reached before Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin departed for a vacation at Aix-les-Bains, France.

This decision, however, did not mean any relaxation of Britain's determination to uphold the sovereign rights of Ethiopia, especially in view of the declaration by Capt. Anthony Eden, Minister for League Affairs, that he would assume responsibility for putting the issue squarely before the League of Nations Council Sept. 4 if the forthcooming three-Power conferences failed. Baldwin is expected to maintain private contact with Eden while both are in France next week.

Baldwin left his duties here, represented as still hopeful that war between Italy and Ethiopia might be averted, but not too optimistic over the situation.

MacDonald, taking over the leadership immediately after Baldwin's departure, served notice through the National Labor publication that "I am still in the fight" for peace.

British quarters expressed hope that Premier Mussolini could be convinced in the Italian conversations with England and France that the representatives of other nations on the League of Nations Council would not keep silent at the next session if he opposed peace efforts.

Sir Norman Angell, noted author and lecturer, proposed that to keep peace in East Africa Britain should "let it be known that it might be necessary to close the Suez Canal," meanwhile "giving Mussolini an opportunity to climb down without appearing to do so."

NEW SHIP SUBSIDY BILL FIXES LIMITS ON FEDERAL AID

U. S. Would Pay 33 1-3 to 40 Pct. on Construction in Making Up Excess Over Foreign Cost.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A revised ship subsidy bill, designed chiefly to meet objections of President Roosevelt to earlier ones, was introduced by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, yesterday.

It carries provisions under which the Government would put up in cash the difference between costs of constructing ships in this country and in foreign yards, and finance the difference in costs of operating ships with American crews and with foreign crews.

Where the old bill placed no limit on the amount of the Government's share of the building cost, the new measure fixes it at 33 1-3 per cent except where special showing is made justifying lifting it to 40 per cent.

Maritime Authority Created. Under present law, the ocean mail contracts, through which subsidies heretofore have been operated, are subject to cancellation or revision by the President after Oct. 30. The new bill provides that holders of such contracts must apply to the maritime authority within 60 days after enactment of the measure for operation under the Government building and operating subsidy program.

The authority, which is created by the bill, would have until July 1, 1936, to determine how the present mail contracts should be revised, and what compensation, if any, is due the ship operators for their cancellation.

Operators declining to subject their contracts to such revision would be denied further payments upon the expiration of the 60 days and would have access to the courts for any damages accruing.

To speed up construction of new ships, the bill provides that during the next seven years the Government will put up all payments for building them, and allow the operator to pay it back in 15 annual installments.

The operator pays back only the amount equaling what the vessel would cost to be built in foreign yards, the Government absorbing the balance from its construction fund.

Some Other Provisions. Under another provision, shipbuilders wishing to put up 25 per cent of the foreign cost of the vessel in cash, may have 20 years in which to pay the balance.

Under both these types of contract, the Government builds the ship under its own supervision, merely selling the vessel to the operator.

Under a third type of contract, the operator may build his own ship and the Government will pay to him the "construction differential" representing the difference between American and foreign costs of the job.

A new provision in the bill permits the Government to borrow from the Reconstruction Corporation up to 75 per cent of the foreign cost of the vessels at 3 1/2 per cent interest, but Copeland said the President had not yet passed on this provision of the bill.

Any subsidized operator has a salary limit of $25,000.

While the Government seeks to make up the difference between American and foreign operating costs, it also, under the bill, would limit profits to 6 per cent determined over a five-year period. Any excess would go into a "recapture" fund to apply on paying off the construction or operating subsidy.

Copeland estimated the operating subsidy would cost the Government $11,000,000 to $13,000,000 annually.

Copeland said he would not bring the new measure up on the floor "unless I have assurance from the administration that it is entirely satisfactory."

BREST ARSENAL STRIKE ENDS; ONE KILLED, 50 INJURED

French Port Heavily Guarded After Two Days of Rioting, Government Pay Cut.

BREST, France, Aug. 7.—Under the guard of gendarmes, soldiers and sailors, the employees of the navy arsenal went back to work today.

Many of them wore bandages on their heads and hands as a result of injuries suffered in two days of rioting in which one man was killed and about 50 injured.

Reinforcements of gendarmes, both afoot and mounted, were added to the military guard.

The fresh forces came to help patrol the streets through which 3000 demonstrators surged yesterday, stoning troops and police in protest against pay cuts under Government economy decrees.

The Government stood fast on its decree laws, officials announcing: "The sacrifices asked of all categories of citizens by the Government were imposed by the necessity for the country's financial recovery. That necessity remaining, the Government stays resolved to pursue its task."

KENTUCKY RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Two Democrats Will Compete in Run-Off Election Sept. 7.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 7.—Thomas S. Rhea, and Lieutenant-Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler today prepared for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky in a run-off primary Sept. 7.

Tabulation of approximately three-fourths of the vote in last Saturday's primary gave Rhea, in round numbers, 10,000 plurality over Chandler, but 25,000 less than a majority of all votes for the five candidates in the race. In 3015 out of 4219 precincts Rhea had 152,855 votes; Chandler 142,136; Frederick A. Wallis 31,856; Elam Huddleston 11,324 and Bailey P. Wootton 2505.

Republicans, who endorsed the "slate" chosen at their "recommending convention" three months ago, nominated Circuit Judge King Swope of Lexington for Governor.

Some time after he takes office, Lord Linlithgow will become the first Governor-General of a Federated India on proclamation of the bill granting India self-government with safeguards.

Linlithgow, who is 48 years old, served throughout the World War. He was Civil Lord of the Admiralty from 1922 to 1924 and in addition to the chairmanships of the India Agriculture Committee and the Joint Select Committee of Lords and Commons on the India bill, he has headed other important committees.

100,000 ETHIOPIANS IN MILITARY REVIEW

Warriors Shout "Mow Them Down, the Battle Cry of Adua."

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 7.—One hundred thousand tribal warriors passed in review today before Crown Prince Asfa Wusien, screaming "ebalgame" (mow them down), the battle cry of Adua, where Ethiopian troops once defeated the army of Italy.

The review for the Crown Prince was held on the northern plains of Wollo Province, near Gondar. The men faced toward Adua, 100 miles north, and sent up repeated shouts of "ebalgame" (mow them down), the battle cry of Adua, where Ethiopian troops once defeated the army of Italy.

The review for the Crown Prince was held on the northern plains of Wollo Province, near Gondar. The men faced toward Adua, 100 miles north, and sent up repeated shouts of "ebalgame" (mow them down), the battle cry of Adua, where Ethiopian troops once defeated the army of Italy.

"Foreigners acquainted with us know that danger does not exist for them in the event of a war," he said.

"The Government envisages special measures for protection and security for foreigners and their property in case of hostilities or movements of troops in their vicinity."

The Emperor once more indicated he would follow the example of his famous granduncle, Emperor Menelik, and lead the Ethiopians against the Italians should the necessity arise.

"Our traditions and Constitution require me to be commander-in-chief of the army," he said. "Though deeply attached to the cause of peace, I do not intend to avoid my sacred duty in leading my armies in defense of our liberty and territory."

He is working 18 hours a day, dealing with the innumerable problems connected with preparation for war.

Tribal chieftains are calling at the palace to assure him of their loyalty and at the same time to appeal for arms and munitions. He is meeting the appeal as best he can, although there is an evident shortage of all kinds of weapons.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Speaking of Tolerance—

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHAT a splendid homily on racial tolerance our distinguished Secretary of State Cordell Hull read to the German Reichstag, Adolf Hitler, a few days ago! It may possibly insure Hitler's temporary immunity from the German courts for a few days, at least. It might even start a boycott against braunschweiger and pretzels and dachshunds in America!

However, before we get too deeply involved in our messianic role of arbiter in matters of racial tolerance, it might not be irrelevant to recall such inconvenient incidents as the Leo Frank lynching in Georgia or the Praeger case in Illinois during the hysteria of the late World War.

It is getting to the point where patriotic Americans who hope for the survival of a few tattered shreds of democracy will join with the New Republic in proposing the following severe test. Elect to the American presidency a Catholic in 1936, a Jew in 1940 and a Negro in 1944.

Perhaps this concrete application of grammar-school platitudes about equal opportunity and democracy would prove too severe an operation for the patient in his present emaciated and devitalized condition.

DONALD P. BEARD.

Bouquet for St. Louis Street Car Men.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ST. LOUIS can be proud of its street car conductors, motormen and station attendants. A stranger to your city recently went by street car to a hospital for an operation. In his weakened condition, he was shown every courtesy. After reaching the hospital, he discovered the loss of a package, which contained clothing and a purse. A thorough search was made and W. W. Lacy, who was in charge of a Bellevue car, found it. He turned it in to D. C. Huddleston, in charge of lost articles at the North Broadway car station.

Verily, St. Louis has honest and courteous men in its street car system.

MRS. ANNA SCHRECK.

Bellevue, Ill.

Mr. May on Traffic Law Fines.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT is somewhat surprising to me that anyone should hold the view expressed by Thomas Ruder in this column recently. He says that if I would attend the hearings in the city courts, I would be moved by the pathetic condition of automobile operators confronted with the menace of a fine. It is no pleasure to me to see anyone fined, but it does seem to me that anyone who is able to own an automobile and buy gasoline to run it should not seek to avoid responding to the demands of the law by pleading inability to pay a small fine.

I submit that the pathos of the picture of an automobile owner and operator paying a small fine for the violation of safety regulations is not to be mentioned in the same breath with the picture presented daily in our hospitals and in our homes as a result of reckless automobile driving. If anyone has tears to shed, let him shed them there.

I am not eager to have anyone fined, but I am eager to help make our streets safe for men, women and little children. That is the purpose of all our work. In this undertaking, we need the co-operation of everyone.

CHAS. M. HAY.

Metropolitan Pasture.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOTED a letter in the Post-Dispatch recently about grass growing in the streets. As Mr. Hoover predicted would happen if a metropolitan President were elected. But he should examine the green meadows in the Terminal Railroad yards under the Jefferson avenue viaduct. The Terminal company might utilize this for pasture.

H. R. ROCKWELL.

For a Kilowatt-Hour Tax.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your editorial, "Mr. Chandler for the Defense," you say there is no way to distribute the wealth produced by our great industrial machine except to tax the owners of the machine. Why not tax the machine itself? Why not devise a tax that will distribute the wealth of the machine without destroying its benefits?

At first thought, it might seem impossible to tax every machine, for they are spread out over all the states, in homes, offices, stores and factories. It is impracticable to base a tax on the size of a machine or on the number of hours it is in operation or on the number of units it produces. But we can determine the power it consumes. This is a fair measure of production. Simply stated, I propose a kilowatt-hour tax on electricity to be paid by the consumer.

In this way we will increase the cost of machine operation without affecting labor costs. We have reached a point where we can produce much, but can buy little. To buy more, we must distribute a greater part of our national income in wages. A kilowatt-hour tax will protect our wage structure in the same way a tariff protects our workers against foreign competition. If we increase the cost of machine operation, more jobs will go to men and fewer to machines, and there will be an increased demand for labor.

L. A. S.

THE TAX PROBLEM.

The need for a scientific and non-partisan approach to the tax problem was well set forth in the address by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau which was reprinted in part yesterday. That need is again demonstrated by the facts and figures given by Robert H. Jackson, counsel to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, in his testimony at the Senate Finance Committee's hearing on the pending tax bill.

As we have frequently said, that tax system is out of joint which relies to the extent that our Federal system now relies on taxes based on consumption, rather than on ability to pay. Since 1930, as Mr. Jackson showed, there has been a steady rise in the percentage of the total Federal revenues derived from consumption taxes—which include the miscellaneous internal revenue taxes, the customs taxes, and now the processing taxes—and a corresponding fall in the percentage derived from the income tax.

The figures graphically tell the story. In 1930, taxes based on ability to pay—that is, income taxes—accounted for 68.2 per cent of the Federal collections, and consumption taxes, with their disproportionately heavy incidence upon persons of small means, for only 31.8 per cent. In five years, there has been a striking change in the picture. Consumption taxes now bring in 61.3 per cent of the revenue and ability-to-pay taxes only 38.7 per cent.

The figures as presented in this expert testimony are an argument not only for higher rates on the exceptionally well-to-do, as provided in the pending tax bill, but for increases in lower brackets as well, to the end that the heavy burden now placed upon the least fortunate groups of taxpayers through the Government's sales and nuisance taxes may be substantially alleviated. The income-tax base, in other words, should be broadened.

That is only one of the reforms that need to be made in the tax structure. A system which permits tax evasion and avoidance on the present scale cries out for change. Immediate steps should be taken toward breaking down the legal sanctuary now provided by tax-exempt securities. We should begin work, as Secretary Morgenthau has said, on a plan to bring about some degree of comity between the states and the nation in taxation matters, with the object of reducing conflicts and overlapping in taxes.

The present controversy over the administration's tax proposals, however it may turn out, will serve a useful purpose if it dramatizes the need for getting to work without delay on a long-range, comprehensive program of tax reform.

TOURISTS AND THE QUINTUPLETS.

Ontario draws its wealth, the statistical tables say, from such things as lumber, wheat, livestock, flour, meat-packing, fruit, nickel, paper pulp, etc. Those statistics will have to be amplified now, in view of the growing importance of the Dionne quintuplets as an economic asset. They are attracting visitors in flocks and droves—1000 on week days and 3000 to 5000 on Sunday. Business is booming in and around remote North Bay. The Province itself collects nearly $12,000 a month in gasoline taxes from the visitors. Northern Ontario's natural phenomenon has a tourist traffic rivaling that of Southern Ontario's marvel, Niagara Falls.

Everyone in the region seems happy, according to latest reports—Government officials, storekeepers, vendors of board and lodging, Dr. Dafoe, the celebrated Misses Dionne themselves. Everyone, that is, except Papa and Mama Dionne, who still seem to have a status little above that of the tourists who view the babies through a window. With elections impending in Canada, relief for the forgotten parents might offer a satisfactory battle cry for a party in quest of a cause—and there would probably be plenty of sympathetic supporters.

A BRITISH INTEREST IN ETHIOPIA.

Great Britain's extraordinary efforts to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy arise from many motives. One of the most important of them is her concern over guaranteeing a water supply to Egypt and the Sudan. These are watered by the Nile, one of whose tributaries, the Blue Nile, originates at Lake Tana, in Ethiopia. If Italy should take over Ethiopia, she would control the source of the Blue Nile and would be able to divert its waters, jeopardizing lands in Egypt and the Sudan which depend upon irrigation for cultivation.

A jealous watchfulness over the headwaters of the Nile has been a characteristic of British policy in Africa. It caused the Fashoda incident in 1898, when French and British troops glared at each other for nearly a year from opposite banks of the White Nile, while diplomats in London and Paris strove feverishly and successfully to avert war. The need for assuring a water supply to Egypt and the Sudan has been the subject of a series of treaties with Ethiopia, Italy and France, whose continuity is now threatened.

Recently, Great Britain has revived its long-contemplated plan of damming the waters of the Blue Nile just south of Lake Tana to assure Egypt and the Sudan of a steady flow of water throughout the year. As it is now, because of uneven flow, water must be stored in artificial lakes. In June, it was reported that an agreement among the Ethiopian, Egyptian and Sudanese governments for construction of the dam had virtually been completed. An Italian conquest would undoubtedly nullify that agreement.

Here is one of the reasons why the Italo-Ethiopian trouble is a threat to world peace. It illustrates the impossibility of isolating the quarrel to Italy and Ethiopia.

WHY THE FARMERS ARE BUYING.

While the courts weigh the processing taxes in the balance, the national economy is stimulated by the purchasing power of agriculture.

Gross farm income from 1934 production is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at $7,200,000,000, an increase of nearly $900,000,000 over 1933 and two billion dollars over 1932. The peak income since 1920 was $11,971,000,000 in 1929.

Farm income declined in June from the levels of May, but kept well above 1934. Income from farm products, $433,000,000, was enhanced by $49,000,000 of benefit payments. This made a total cash income of $487,000,000. With more and more injunctions piling up, the collection of processing taxes are dwindling. For once in his life, the farmer enjoyed the equivalent of a tariff.

It is a question whether this is not essential to a wholesome national economy. Almost everyone who has studied the problem thinks it is. If the way in which it is being done falls short of constitutional requirements, then farm income will have to be buoyed up by something else. We have often said what we think this something else can be. It is the co-operative. To give the farmer an equivalent of the tariff enjoyed by industry is merely to match one makeshift with another. It is not the way they do it in Denmark, the most advanced of all agricultural countries.

"WITHOUT RECOMMENDATION."

Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee has said that it is likely his committee will report the Guffey-Snyder coal bill to the floor without recommendation. The subcommittee, to whose chairman, Representative Hill, President Roosevelt addressed his now celebrated letter urging approval of this bill notwithstanding doubt as to its constitutionality, has already reported the important sections of the bill to the full committee without recommendation. Prior to subcommittee action, Attorney-General Cummings took substantially the same stand. That is, he declined to give his opinion of the bill's constitutionality, saying it would require the judgment of the courts to decide.

It is a question whether the seriousness of this situation could be overstated. Congress and the people whom Congress represents were entitled to the views of the nation's chief legal adviser. The full committee was entitled to the recommendation of the subcommittee which gave the bill special attention. The House as a whole is entitled, in turn, to have the opinion of the full committee. A series of evasions such as characterize the consideration of the Guffey-Snyder coal bill is enough to cause every American citizen who cares about the course of our ship of state to do some hard, solid thinking about law-making in Washington these days.

THE DOWAGERS NEXT.

Congressman Nelson of Missouri admits the social lobby is his pet aversion. It is the deadliest of the persuasive pests that infect Washington like a visitation of locusts. Statesmen who are adamant to the eloquent sophistry of high-powered lawyers, who are unmoved by gales of telegrams from their home districts, who laugh at the dire predictions of legislative agents that next election day will be a disaster—statesmen who are beyond the threat or cajolery of the minions of the special interests, waver, hesitate and finally succumb to the insidious allurements of the dinner table and the scintillating wit and maddening beauty of the hostess.

In this sector of temptation, the Congressman is often on the spot, so to speak. There's the wife of his bosom who joins forces with the enemy, and in that hostile alliance is a regiment, or a division, or even a whole thundering army. To her the smart set is the land of desire, the Fortunate Isle, the ne plus ultra. Crash the gates she will, and crash them she does, and her honest husband whose noble ambition was to be a faithful public servant finds himself sipping the cocktail delightedly, finds the elegance of flowers and silver and bon mots and repartee—Oh, the Latin long ago wrote the epitaph: Facilis descensus Averno, which may be poetically translated as "The way to hell is swell."

Mr. Nelson hopes the lobby investigation will, before adjourning, peer into the ways and means of the Piping Rocketeers of the national capital.

Well, as the Douglas in his hall said it: "What warrier, ho! Bring in the dowagers!"

CURBING THE HOLDING COMPANIES.

It is unlikely that the holding company bill will come out in anything like the form hoped for by its authors. A second test in the House, though showing a loss of 15 votes for the companies, reveals the lower branch of Congress still unwilling to accept the so-called "death sentence."

This is a victory for the power industry, but it is not one that will surprise the nation. The ramifications of the forces fighting the bill are as widespread as the industry itself. The power companies are expert in politics. They have sharpened their wits in the states. Almost none of the states has been able to regulate them, and a test of strength in almost any state Legislature is not unlike that in the lower house of Congress.

Nevertheless, the holding companies have had their heyday. If some of them perform a public service and are a benefit to the people, that will develop in the battle which began when the holding company bill was introduced. The rest will be destroyed as all unsocial things ultimately must be destroyed in the orderly progress of human affairs.

The holding company problem is not one that can be solved by scolding Congress. The root of the trouble lies far away from Washington. It lies in the local political sway of the power companies. To understand the House one need not go beyond the borders of one's State, as witness the dominance of the electric companies at Jefferson City, or the borders of one's city, as witness the political power of the local electric company at the St. Louis City Hall.

Tiff, we believe, is too mild a word to describe the trouble going on in Washington County, Mo.

A WALLPOING POEM.

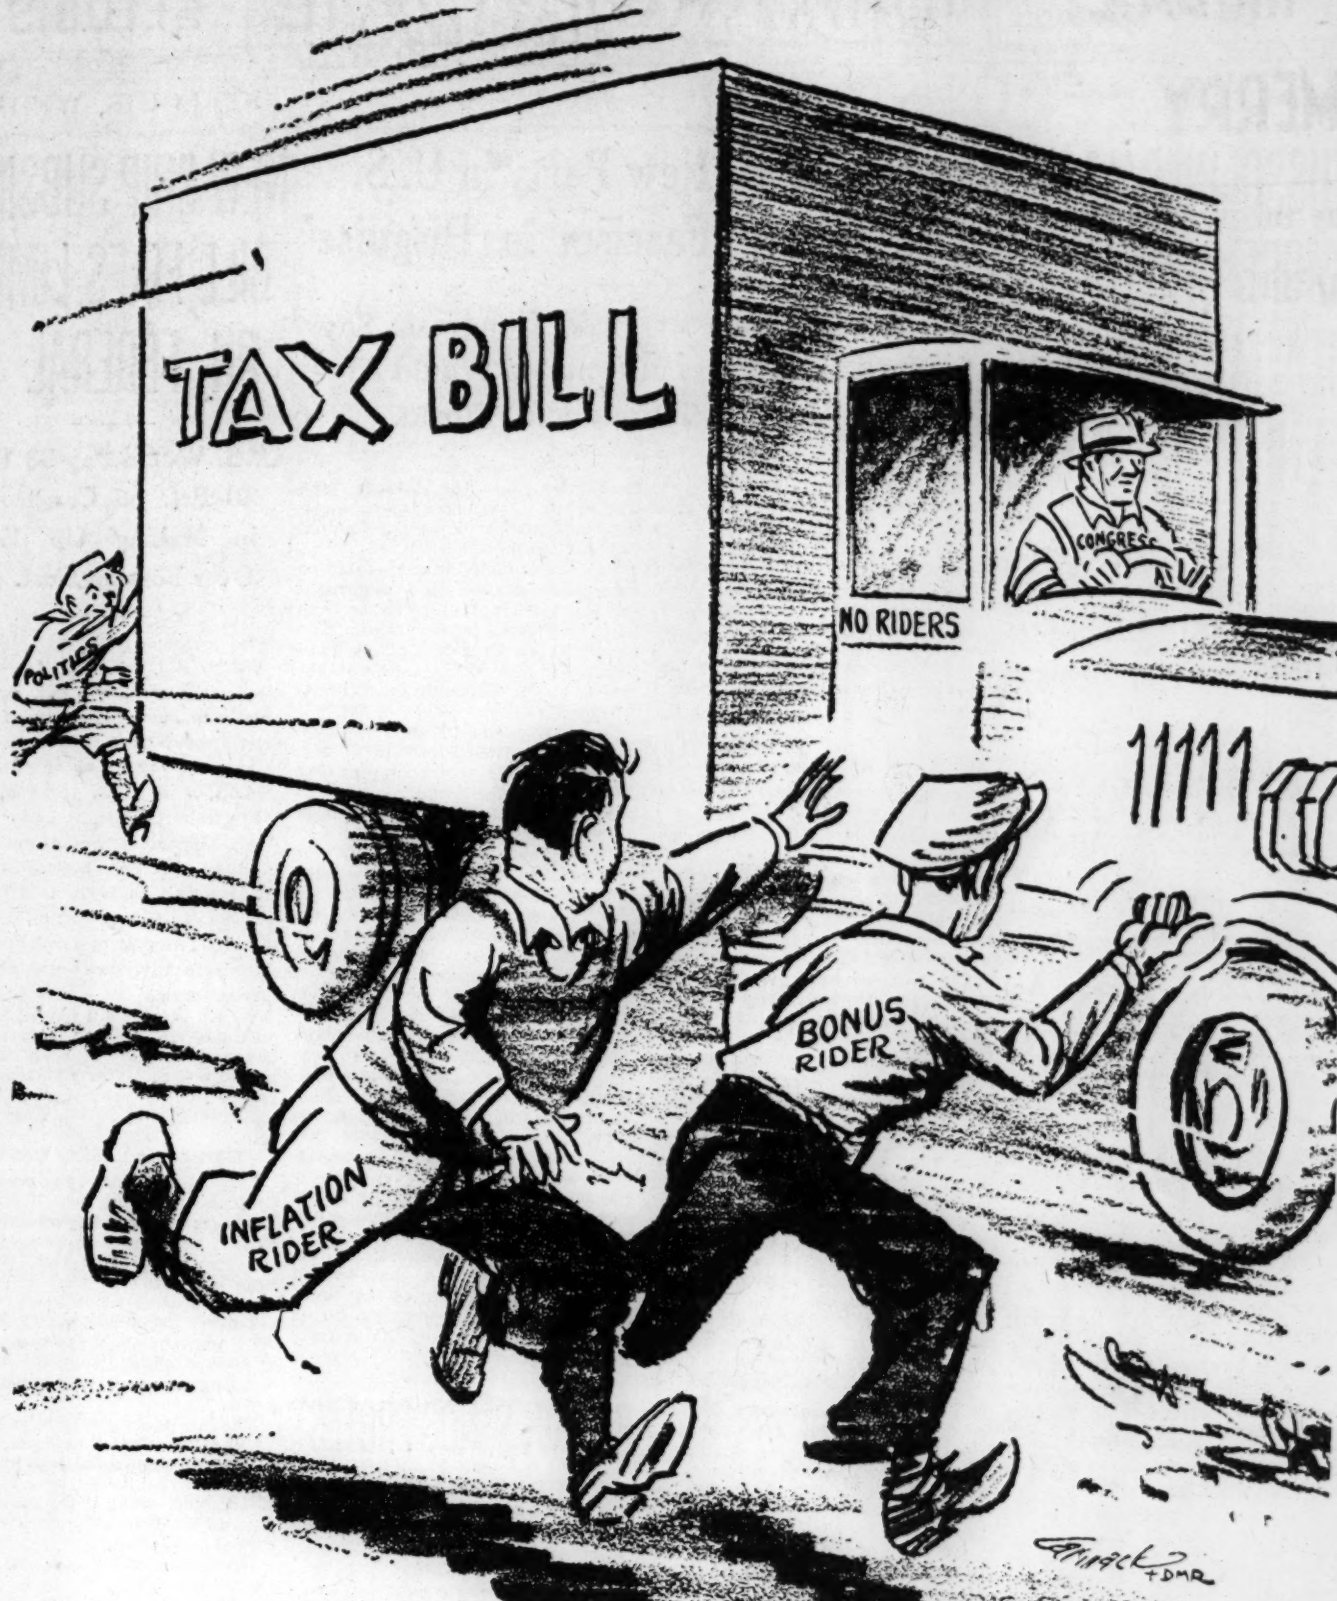

When a poet takes time off to write a real poem, as still occasionally happens, there is joy in the land. That is precisely what happened when Kenneth Allan Robinson wrote "American Laughter," published in the July Scribner's and reprinted in another column.

There's a poem. Canvass of an editorial staff has evoked "grand," "dandy," "swell," "a wallop." It is all of that. There's the sweep of the prairie in it, nights ablaze with stars and the sun of brave days shining. Doubtless the pioneers had as rough sledding as our modern novelists so dutifully love to paint. But it was high-hearted adventure, too, and they sang and whistled and laughed and lived and died gallantly, unconscious for the most part that they were wearing crowns of martyrdom. They didn't suspect the greatness of the parts they were playing, but greatness was theirs, and the poem tells it as the pioneers would have it, told, and in colors of vivid, haunting truth.

From the biographical sketches of the contributors, the author, we are informed, teaches American literature at Dartmouth, "has published a lot of verse and wants to write a great deal more, especially on American themes and subjects."

Here's hoping. It is the thing of all things this rarely gifted poet ought to do.

No smoker ever attained a higher degree of nonchalance than Mandeville W. Zenge, who, upon being confronted with the widow of the man he is charged with slaying, inquired: "How's everything in Kirksville?"

PERSISTENT HITCH-HIKERS.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

A Bad Tax Bill

ANYONE wishing to study the new tax bill will find that very little information has been made available. There is the President's message, which was a general essay, devoid of actual figures and rather confusedly reasoned as to its principles. There are the hearings before the House committee. They lasted six days. No one of the bill but has seen a draft of the bill but does not know it, and no one who was drafting it took the trouble to expound it or to defend it. The only expert who appeared was Lovell H. Parker, chief of staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, and while his evidence was clear, informative and competent, it was the testimony of an expert who did not venture to discuss the larger questions of policy.

There is the text of the bill itself, which to the ordinary reader is as informing as the hieroglyphics on the obelisk. There is the Democratic committee report, which summarizes, none too clearly, the provisions of the bill but does not explain or advocate them. There is the minority report of the Republican committee, which is a partisan stump speech. There is the debate in the Ways and Means Committee of the House, which was perfunctory.

Whether it is a revenue measure or a social reform or both, the new tax bill is legislation in the spirit of this legislation: "It can be seen from the table last submitted that we now have only about 8000 returns annually showing net income in excess of $50,000. Thus the proposed surtax increases will affect only two-tenths of 1 per cent of the number of returns filed and four-tenths of 1 per cent of taxable returns filed."

If the committee had been entirely frank, it would have put the matter even more clearly. It would have said that the increased surtaxes affect only one income taxpayer in each 5000 voters, or, if you wish to add a wife and adult children, it might affect four or five voters in each 5000 voters.

Actually, the percentage of those affected is smaller than these figures show. For while the new taxes start at $50,000 net income, they do not begin to bite until $100,000 is passed. In 1933, there were 2000 net incomes of more than $100,000. In 1924, there were less than 6000 incomes of this size. Even in 1929, there were less than 15,000. So what it comes to is that Congress is voting taxes which at the present time affect somewhere between 2000 and 3000 taxpayers. It is no undue cynicism to say that this explains adequately why the whole thing is being done so hastily and so casually.

Substantially the same thing may be said of the radically new proposal to introduce the inheritance tax into the Federal tax structure and superimpose it upon the existing estate tax. This means that after the estate as a whole has paid a Federal tax which is graduated up to 60 per cent, the heirs are then to pay individual taxes graduated up to 75 per cent on the share they inherit.

These inheritance taxes, assuming that one person inherits the whole estate, would not affect many more than 8000 persons a year. But out of this number not many more than 1000 estates have a net value of more than $500,000. So it can readily be seen how very few persons are really brought within the scope of the law.

This legislation will be defended on the stump as a measure to make the very rich pay a large share of the cost of government. But the truth is that it merely increases the popular misunderstanding of where the Government draws its revenues. Two-thirds of them have been derived this year from indirect and invisible taxes. Out of total revenues of 3.8 billions, only one billion was obtained from the income tax.

The income tax, thanks to Mr. Mellon's roads upon it, has become a tax system which touches only a few persons and only a small part of the national income. It is quite incapable, as it is now set up, of yielding adequate funds. Therefore, it has been necessary to tax the people through various invisible levies. These invisible levies are very productive, and the Government depends upon them.

Broadly speaking, therefore, the Government gets a small part of the revenue by high direct taxes on the well-to-do and the rich, and gets the major part of its revenue by indirect taxes on the mass of the people. This creates the impression that it is the rich who provide the funds, whereas the fact is that it is the mass of the people who provide them.

It is a well-known axiom that politicians love to spend and hate to tax. Thanks to the Mellon exemptions, now continued under President Roosevelt, we have a fiscal system under which the real sources of revenue are concealed. It is a system under which the people pay but do not know it, under which the rich seem to provide the money, but really provide only a fraction of it. Taxation has been made as politically painless as it is possible to make it and, therefore, it ceases to be an effective check on spending.

There is not a serious student of democratic institutions and of public finance who would deny that such a fiscal system is unsound. It is wrong in principle to confine visible taxes to the rich and then obtain the bulk of the revenue from invisible taxes on the mass of the people. Because it accentuates rather than remedies this wrong principle, the new tax bill seems to me to be fundamentally objectionable.

FIRST PROPHECY OF WINTER.

L. F. Valentine in the Clay Center (Kan.) Times.
BECAUSE of the big crop of blackbirds, the Times prognosticates a cold, severe winter, due to arrive when this hot, blistering summer decides it has had enough. As a matter of fact, no one has ever been heard to state that blackbirds are an indication of a severe winter, nor do we know why blackbirds should be considered a forerunner of hawks or goose bones. But it is about time now to start predicting a cold winter, and the prophecy might as well be hung on the blackbirds, seeing there are so many this summer, as upon anything else.

American Laughter

Kenneth Allan Robinson in Scribner's.

OH, the men who laughed the American laughter. Whittled their jokes from the tough bull-pines; They were tall men, sharpened before and after; They studied the sky for the weather signs; They tilted their hats and they smoked long-nines!

Their laughter was ladled in Western flagons And poured down throats that were parched for more; This was the laughter of democrat wagons And homely men at the crossroads store — It tickled the shawl that a lawyer wore!

It hurt the ears of the dainty and pretty But they laughed the louder and laughed their fill, A laughter made for Virginia City, Springfield, and Natchez-under-the-Hill, And the river that flows past Hannibal still!

American laughter was lucky laughter, A conkskin tune by a homespun bard; It tasted of hams from the smokehouse rafter And locust trees in the courthouse yard, And Petroleum Nasby and Artemus Ward!

They laughed at the Mormons and Mike Fink's daughter, And the corncob tale of Sut Lovingood's dog, Till the ague fled from the fever-stump And the damps deserted the tree-stump bog.

They laughed at the tale of the jumping frog! They laughed at the British, they laughed at the Shakers, At Horace Greeley, and stovepipe hats; They split their fences and plowed their acres.

And treed their troubles like mountain-cats; They laughed calamity out of the flat! Now the Boston man, according to rumor, Said, as he turned in his high-backed bed, "This doesn't conform to my rules for humor."

And he settled his nightcap over his head, —But it shook the earth like the buffalo-tread! And the corn grew tall and the fields grew wider, And the land grew sleek with the mirth they sowed;

They laughed the fat meat into the spider, They laughed the blues from the Wilderness Road, —They crossed hard times to the Comstock Lode!

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT.

From the Daily Oklahoman (Oklahoma City).
LET those who fear that our Government is destined to become perpetually radical or perpetually reactionary take note of how the people have been obeying the law of the pendulum from the days of Washington and Adams. Twelve years of conservatism was followed by the liberalism of Jefferson, whose advent established the reign of the hawks or goose bones. Actually, the American people want the extreme of neither school of government, and whenever the Government swings too far toward either view, the people promptly jerk it back.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The ISEACRES of the Democratic National Committee are worried about a chain letter.

It consists chiefly of excerpts from Roosevelt speeches and started originally in the Middle West. At the bottom of the letter is carried the notation: "Why not make copies of this and send it to 10 others and ask them to do likewise?"

The extent to which a letter like this may travel is limitless and that is what causes Democratic National Committee worry. One astute correspondent wrote to the committee asking whether the quotations from the Roosevelt speeches were accurate, and that he would wait for a reply before sending out copies of the letter.

He never got an answer.

Here is the letter. "I accuse the present administration (Hoover) of being the greatest spending administration in peace times, in all our history—one which has piled bureau on bureau, commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs of reduced earning power of the people. — Franklin D. Roosevelt, speech at Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 29, 1932.

"I regard reduction in Federal spending as one of the most important issues of this campaign. In my opinion, it is the most direct and effective contribution that the Government can make to business. — Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19, 1932.

Expenditures of Government from Washington to Wilson, 1789 to 1913, total of 124 years, $24,521,845,000.

Expenditures of Roosevelt administration estimated by the President, actual 1934, and estimated 1935 and 1936, total of three years, $24,206,533,000.

"Remember well that attitude and method—the way we do things; not just the way we say things—is nearly always the measure of our sincerity. — Franklin D. Roosevelt, speech at Butte, Mont., Sept. 19, 1932.

Big Help.

THE widely published report that Big Jim Farley would seek the scalp of Senator Bill Borah when he comes up for re-election next year brought the Idahoan many expressions of support from Senate colleagues.

One of the most enthusiastic sympathizers was New York's Democratic Royal S. Copeland.

He rushed up to Borah, wrung his hand and exclaimed: "Bill, you haven't a thing to worry about now. Farley was against me when I ran last year, and his opposition was one of the biggest factors in my re-election."

Knox-Conscious.

IT looks as if Frank Knox, ardent Republican publisher of the Chicago Daily News, already has launched a full-blown drive to garner delegates for the Republican National Convention next June.

That is the interpretation Republican leaders on Capitol Hill place upon the mysterious goings and comings of "Tanglefoot Bob" Lucas, who was executive director of the Republican National Committee under Hoover.

The smooth-talking Kentuckian had been politically quiescent for several years. But last spring he suddenly began to hang bunting on the Knox bandwagon.

At the Springfield, Ill., "grass-roots" gathering he told friends that since 1920 he had never failed to pick the successful Republican nominee and he was convinced Knox would capture the prize in 1936.

Last month Lucas spent several weeks touring the deep South. As this is not the season for recreational sojourning in the land of sunshine, the suspicion is general that he was bagging delegates.

This conviction was further strengthened by the disclosure that Lucas had circulated 3000 county, city and 800 Young Republican club leaders with a letter in which he blasted Charles H. Hill, New York national committeeman and one of the party's top-hand wire-pullers, as a "tool of Wall street."

Hill is said to be earning the Knox candidacy with a chilly eye, because Knox has been too friendly with Hoover, Hill was against Hoover from the very beginning.

NOTE: Knox's recent heira to the Hoover domicile in Palo Alto did not go down well with some congressional leaders otherwise sympathetic toward his ambitions. So strong is the feeling against the former President that some party chieftains immediately suspect anyone who even drops in at Palo Alto to see him.

Single-Handed.

GEORGE MOSES, Old Guard former Senator from New Hampshire, was introduced to Brain Truster Tom Corcoran at a social gathering.

"I thought there was always two of you together," observed Moses, referring to Corcoran's close friend, Ben Cohen, with whom he writes the Holding Corporation Bill.

"Not always," replied Corcoran.

"We figured that one would be enough to handle you."

Did You Know???

THAT J. Edgar Hoover's high-powered Bureau of Investigation found that 47 per cent of the 2000 fingerprints received daily are duplicated by fingerprints received before? In other words, nearly half the persons apprehended in crime have previous criminal records.

The FERA workers constructing an irrigation ditch in Harrington, Texas, exhumed 20 skeletons, averaging five inches taller than skeletons of normal men today? They may be remains of the extinct Canyway Indian Tribe, known to have been very tall, and to have used grasshoppers as a mainstay of diet.

It was not sea-going F. D. Roosevelt but bronch-busting T. R. who started the practice of presidential yachting down the river? It was T. R. who obtained the Mayflower for this purpose after its service in the Spanish-American War.

Gen. Johnson's Article

New Deal Started Out to Regulate Natural Forces, He Writes, but Now Some Adherents Want to Repeal Them.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—"PRODUCTION for use and not for profit." That is the heart of Communism. The desire to serve one's fellow-man—and not profit—will actuate effort. "To love that makes the world go round."

It is a noble thought. The practices of commerce are no bed of rose geraniums. The condition must be improved.

Men are driven by appetites and emotions. The reason why there are so many separate homes and a vast construction industry is largely the same reason why there are so many billboards, minks and rabbits. The eighteenth amendment failed because a lot of people love their liquor more than their law.

We have captains of industry, governors, generals and other stuffed shirts for about the same reason that a peacock has a tail, that a turkey gobbler struts, and that you can't put two bulls in the same pasture without a scrap. We have lawyers because something is too complex for the average man, too sitting enthralled to see Black Joe Louis pound White Primo Carnera into a red and awful pulp.

None of this is nice, but all of it is true. When you can legislate appetites out of the human animal you can repeal the profit motive. But that doesn't mean that you can do anything about it. We have done a whole lot about all of the other appetites and many of the emotions. The mating instinct is no longer generally expressed by kidnapping and ravishment. We have substituted homes for harems. We take our dueling vicariously. Even in war, we don't kill prisoners, and the wounded—much.

In every such situation two courses are always suggested. One is to regulate natural forces; the other is to repeal them.

For this appetite for acquisition, Communism chooses the latter way. The New Deal started out to try the former.

NRA was an attempt to amend abuses in commercialism. It was killed by two enemies: the old guard who didn't want to be "amended," and men on the edge of Communism who did not want to have the profit system smell any sweeter, because they want to destroy it. The old guard was no more deadly to NRA than men like Senator Nye.

Nye-like persons have made great strides. Under the guise of a move to take the profits out of war, Senator Nye produced a bill to abandon the profit motive in war—to adopt Communism on the advent of national danger. The pending tax bill is not a bill for revenue, but a bill to bar revenue by preventing profit.

Labor bulletin 598 of the Department of Labor urges the working man to join co-operative movement. "The great co-operative movement of the world is moving on to put into the pockets of the consumers that vast fund known as the 'profits of business'."

That language was inadvertent. The policy of preventing profit by tax will not prevail. Senator Nye will soon be understood. But this sort of constant and repeated threat is holding back the biggest flood of prosperity we have known. It ought to be repudiated. The New Deal ought to shed this nonsense and get back on the foundations of its beginning.

ANIMALS AT THE ZOO BEARING HEAT WELL

Stand It Better Than Spectators in Opinion of Director Vierheller.

Animals at the Forest Park Zoo stand the heat much better than the crowds that come out to watch them, Director George P. Vierheller said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter. He doesn't like it when persons start the customary talk about "those poor animals out there in all this heat."

For one thing, the animals have reasonably good accommodations, and in the second place they have good sense; when they find a cool spot no one can lure them away from it.

The three new giraffes, for instance, which come from the hot plateaus of Africa, won't leave the comparative coolness of their cage for a walk in the St. Louis sun. During all the hot weather they've gone outside only early in the morning and when it rains. During a cool shower, Vierheller said, no amount of grain and hay will coax them inside.

Next door to them four ostriches sit in a semi-circle with their backs under a spray. They just sit there all day. They've had their food in the morning, so there's nothing to do but keep cool and wait for the next morning to come around.

The Uncomfortable Crowd.

But for the crowd which wanders around the hot gravel paths there is little relief. Some girls go about in shorts, women fan themselves with newspapers, and men sneak off to a bench and lie down with their hats over their faces. But they all look worn and sticky. Only two tiny girls with fine tanned skins and wearing nothing but light blue rompers looked cool.

Refreshment stands do a good business, but mostly in ice cream, sweet drinks and confections. The strongest drink sold is 3.2 beer.

There has been only one major casualty at the Zoo caused by the heat. Sammy, the prize chimpanzee, came down with a severe stomach disorder and for the last 10 days has been kept in a specially cooled cage with no visitors allowed. He is on the road to improvement now, and last night ate two apples, which had to be peeled, and half a head of lettuce. That's one-fifth of his normal diet.

Two small snakes died because of the heat, but the loss is hardly felt, at least so far as the total population of the reptile house is concerned, because a Florida water snake recently had a litter of 40.

One Place to Forget Heat.

The coolest place at the whole menagerie is the chimpanzee kindergarten arena, by the island pool, between 3:40 and 4:15 p. m. Not that the sun is any less hot, or the breeze any more brisk, but if Jackie and his gang don't make the crowd forget the heat then Leon Smith the trainer, has wasted all his days.

Jackie is the most accomplished of the younger chimpanzees, being almost four years old, and his gang consists of Lady, Krool, Percy, Wildman, Tommy and Jimmy. Their ages range down to two years. They are like all trained chimps, the champion dead pan comedians playing on any stage and they have the added virtue of never asking for applause. They know they're good, so why bother.

To see Jackie spit lazily in his spittle, see Lady "walk like Mae West," watch Krool and Percy "waltz," and see Jackie shake in the shimmy dance is to see a burlesque of all human beings. And finally, when Jackie is told to throw kisses to the crowd, he thumbs his nose with perfect contempt.

But once that's over, the heat returns. Yesterday most of those watching were out in the park on picnics, and by late afternoon the children were lined up on the picnic grounds for more ice cream and pop. The breeze had died down and the women were fanning themselves again and the men were sprawled out on benches, thinking how hot it must be for all the poor animals at the Zoo.

PAN-AMERICAN CLIPPER'S NEXT FLIGHT TO BE TO GUAM

Trip of 6500 Miles to Be Made in October; Wake Island Test Called Off.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The next trip of the Pan-American clipper, now at its California base, will be an October flight 6500 miles across the Pacific to Guam, the American Airways office announced today.

An engineering test flight to Wake Island had been scheduled for August but progress in constructing island air bases is so far ahead of schedule that it has been called off.

Scheduled flight to Manila, the contemplated terminal of the line, will await the passage of a franchise by the Philippine Legislature which meets Sept. 29.

The clipper's next flight will be an "experimental transport flight" as the line terms it and will be a straight point-to-point flight under the conditions of scheduled transport service for the training of the crew. Previous flights which have gone as far as Midway Island have been engineering flights for the gathering of weather and radio data involving off-course flying.

WALLACE STATES AAA ISSUE

It is "Whether Farmers Are Entitled to Appropriate Share."

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Aug. 7.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told a state conference of corn-grower contract supervisors and farmers yesterday "that the issue in the AAA is whether the farmers are entitled to their appropriate share of the centralized power of Government."

He declared there could be a state of "balanced abundance" if labor, agriculture and industry worked together to turn out their products at a price consumers can afford to pay.

The strike of Detroit housewives against high meat prices he called a "strike against the drought."

Electric Power Production During Week Ended Aug. 3 Was 9.9 Per Cent Greater Than Year Ago—Best Comparisons Since Early January.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Irregular price movements prevailed on the stock exchange today. Profiting hampered some sections, while others were helped along by investment buying and short covering. New highs for the year were made by a few selected issues. The closing tone was irregular. Sales approximated 1,350,000 shares. Commodity and other financial markets pursued the same general course of stocks. Grains were barely steady in Chicago while hogs attained a new five-year peak in both that center and East St. Louis. Cotton was about a standoff. Corporate bonds did a trifle better, but governments were stagnant. Foreign exchanges were steady.

Among shares establishing new 1935 highs were Sears-Robuck, Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Interboro with gains ranging from 1/2 to more than a point. Others on the mend included American Can, Air Reduction, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Telephone, Briggs Mfg., Paramount Pictures and Warner Bros.

Those falling back for losses of fractions to around a point included U. S. Steel, du Pont, U. S. Smelting, Consolidated Gas, Lehman Corp., Mesta Machine, Socony-Vacuum, Columbian Carbon, Standard Oil of N. J., Phillips Petroleum, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central and Erie Railroad.

Wheat closed irregular in Chicago, 4/5 of a cent a bushel lower to 1/2 higher. Corn was unchanged to 1/4 better and oats varied from a decline of 1/4 cent to an advance of 1/4 cent. Cotton closed unchanged to 1/4 better. In foreign exchange, British sterling was 1/4 of a cent higher at $4.96, French francs advanced 1/4 of a cent to 6.22 cents and Holland guilders were 1/4 of a cent lower at $1.72 cents.

Popularity of merchandising shares was associated with a number of new developments. Sears, Roebuck reported an increase of 26.7 per cent in sales for the first six months over the same period a year ago, said S. H. Kress & Co. in July were 10 per cent ahead of those of last year, and net profit of Julius Kayser in the 12 months ended June 30 was reported at more than double that in the preceding year.

Boisterous these favorable items was the report that the number of out-of-town buyers arriving in the New York wholesale markets during July set a record for that month with indications that August would witness a still further expansion. Other reports from the business front included a record for hogs at Chicago and several dividend announcements.

Mid-Week Trade Reviews. A large number of business news items, including earnings reports, dividend declarations and the regular mid-week reviews, came up for attention.

On the brighter side of the ledger was the report of electric power production during the week ending Aug. 2, which was 9.9 per cent greater than in the same week a year ago, the largest weekly rise from year to year since the first part of January, 1935.

The weekly review of the steel industry by "Iron Age" also was heartening, notwithstanding the fact that the publication cautioned a note of caution for the future. Production this week was estimated at 47 per cent of capacity, a gain of one point over the preceding week, and the fifth consecutive week since July 4 that there has been an advance. The increase was the smallest, however, and the review said there were indications "that production may soon level off."

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Business continued to move slowly in the cotton goods division Wednesday. Rayon fabrics are in good ways. Rayon yarns for September delivery also sold well. Unfilled orders in wool goods markets continue large due to recent active sale of dress goods and coats. Silk goods were firm with sales moderate. Bureau shipments from California in July were down slightly from June.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—In its fifth consecutive advance since Independence day, steel production had risen to 47, per cent of capacity, says the Iron Age. "The gain over a week ago—one point or slightly more than 1 per cent—the small gain is an indication that production soon may level off."

"Any cessation in the advance, however, is expected to be temporary, to be followed by renewed expansion in September and October. Belief is becoming widespread that the current recovery in steel output is distinct from the abortive rebounds of previous depression years and really represents the beginning of a long pull out of hard times. This view finds its basis in the absence of speculative buying, the continuing growth of miscellaneous demand, substantial retail sales of automobiles, accumulating activity in capital goods, and, of course, the pronounced buoyancy of scrap, the most sensitive barometer of the steel trade."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Bears, Roebuck & Co. announced today an increase of 26.7 per cent in sales for the first six months of this year compared with the same period of last year.

Speculative buying on the part of Chicago traders was reported through July 16, 1935, totaled $178,122,304 for the same period of last year, an increase of $17,458,500, or 10 per cent.

Net profit on which the Federal income tax was based was $9,071,071, compared with a profit of $8,688,189 for the corresponding six months period of 1934 and $1,619,811 for the same time in 1933.

Why So Many Men?
When Ladies Fight.
Some News Quite New.
If Government Takes 72
Per Cent.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

WHY does Mussolini need so many men for little Abyssinia? If he attacks he will go through the air with bombs, poison gas or both. He certainly will not march hundreds of thousands of men through swamps and over hot sand. He now has 925,000 men under arms, with 340,000 Fascist militia ready to be called, plus 200,000 others born two years before the big war started. Is something else present or expected, back of all this man power? Even if Japan should come in, that would only mean a more complicated air war.

Haile Selassie, Emperor of "Negus" of Ethiopia, his relatives and Ministers emphasize too often the fact that "our women will march with their warriors, as usual. If you have seen one of the little, flint hammers with which Apache squaws used to finish off warriors left wounded on the battle field, you know that excited women "marching with warriors" can be disagreeable.

Recent wars have spared women, as much as possible, but an Italian soldier could hardly be expected to refrain from shooting at women in Abyssinia, if told, on the authority of the women's own Emperor that they will be busy on the battlefield helping to kill Italians and perhaps to "finish off the wounded."

Whatever is new is news, so you must learn that a racketeer may exploit you after death. The "Memorial Scroll" racket, using without authority names of clergymen, sell to sorrowing relatives, for 10 dollars each, "scrolls" worth 50 cents. That is number one.

Number two: On the edge of the Sacramento River in California a lady 30 years old, appeared with a suitcase. While eight youths looked on, she undressed, then danced for some time, on the edge of the water, finally plunged in crying: "I'm not coming back," and sank in mid-stream. That death-preceding dance, is new in suicide.

In Chicago Renee Villon, described by reporters as "23 and shapely," fainted in the Woman's Court when sentenced to 30 days in jail for appearing, almost naked, in her "peacock dance."

The prosecutor said "he had never seen a peacock with so few feathers." The Judge suggested "perhaps this is the moulting season."

You could imagine a more appropriate occasion for super-wit. If officials treat law breaking as a joke, what can they expect of criminals?

This also is new. In California Dr. Ralph Willard, born in South Russia, in five years of experiment, has frozen hundreds of small animals and restored them to active life, sometimes after several months of unconsciousness.

He restored to life and ill temper, a monkey named Jekyll, that had lain for five days "in a gray lump of ice." The monkey has tuberculosis, and Dr. Willard hopes that to remain frozen for a while, might destroy the germs. Then the monkey, thawed out, would be cured.

If experiments work with monkeys, men will be tried if any are willing. Cold will not kill all germs of life; if it did, germs that must have come through the ether at 400 degrees below zero could not have started life on this planet, and scientists say such germs from outside space started life here.

What would happen to estates worth $10,000,000 or more taxed 72 per cent of their value after death? The Ford plants, name and business, are certainly worth a thousand million dollars, for it is understood that one billion was offered for them when they were smaller than at present. Counsel for the Internal Revenue Department says death duty on the Ford plant would not disturb the factory.

"The stock would be more widely divided." That is all.

The stock all belongs, as it should, to Henry Ford, his wife and son. How would it be divided? Who would buy it? Would the Government take it over, and print some more "inflation bonds" to pay for it?

A DOCTOR TALKS OF HEALTH

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Dr. Clendening SHOULD furnish enough bulk; (6) SHOULD be digested without discomfort.

In digestive disturbances we do not have to bother about the energy requirement. This is made up from the starches, sugars, fats and proteins in food. No matter how serious a digestive disturbance is, the patient can practically always digest enough of these foods to give him his energy requirement.

Changes. Tissue replacement, which is furnished by the protein in the food (from milk, eggs and meat), need not be changed in digestive disorders. In fact, in some of them—for instance, ulcer of the stomach—the protein may be increased because it is comfortably handled and digested by these people.

No change need be made in the water, mineral or vitamin content of the diet in digestive disorders except that in severe diarrhea water is lost very rapidly and may need to be increased.

We need not concern ourselves with the balance between the acid-forming and alkaline-forming foods as we did in diabetes, because the neutrality balance is not likely to be upset in any diet designed for a patient with digestive disorder.

When we come to the last two requirements of a normal diet, we find that they may have to be considerably modified for various forms of indigestion. Bulk, or roughage, which is furnished to us mostly by the fibers of fruits and vegetables, is Nature's natural cathartic, and constipated individuals should have the bulk of their food increased. This may be, indeed, all that is necessary to do for them. It is probably for this reason that the apple had the old adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," hung over it. An apple contains a very large amount of bulk.

Irritations. In diarrhea, on the contrary, we reduce the bulk in the diet and give such things as soups, milk, soft-boiled eggs, mashed potatoes, fruit juices, which furnish no irritating material to the disturbed intestines.

Smoothness of digestion is an important thing, particularly in stomach troubles. The commonest digestive disorder for which a modification of this kind has to be made, is ulcer of the stomach. Closely allied to it is increased acidity. In these conditions we have to give what is known as a "smooth diet," low in roughage and high in material which will combine with the increased acid and neutralize it. Such substances are lean broiled meat, mashed potatoes, toast or bread crust rather than fresh bread, creamed soups, milk, toast, butter and olive oil. The things to be avoided are the three S's—sweet, sour and spicy—candy, desserts, pickles, pepper, mustard, etc.

It is easy to see that such a diet can be prepared without interfering at all with the first four requirements as set down above.

Today

Government may as well recognize that. This is no criticism of higher wisdom, it is a groping for information.

He hath put down the mighty. Prince Abdul Kerim, might be Sultan of Turkey, if the "Young Turks" party and Kemal Pasha had never been born. The Prince killed himself in New York and was going to potter's field, when his father cabled from Turkey ordering a "dignified burial." The dead man's lawyer then ordered a $4800 bronze casket.

The unfortunate Prince, a Caliph, high in the Mohammedan religion, planned to marry a rich American girl, and restore the power of his family.

He did not follow teachings of his leader, Mohammed, closely. A quart bottle of gin, three-quarters empty, was found beside his body. The Koran says: "No gin," or its equivalent.

Did you buy bonds in the big war excitement, when little ladies, seated on elephants, sang patriotic songs, and begged you to give "till it hurts"?

One hundred and eighty-five million dollars' worth of Government bonds are mislaid somewhere, perhaps hidden in old trunks, in desks, safe-deposit boxes by those now dead. Look around. The Government would like to get these past due bonds and pay for them.

Menu and Recipes For Two-Course Summer Dinner

Chicken Tamale Pie
Tomatoes with Cream Sauce
Dutch Salad
Different Huckleberry Slump.

Chicken Tamale Pie.

Simmer a four-pound hen in enough water to barely cover with a clove of garlic, a little celery, a slice of onion, one bay leaf and a teaspoon of salt until tender. Strain off one pint of liquid. To this add one tablespoon of olive oil and into it stir one cupful of yellow corn meal and cook as for mush. While this is cooking cut the chicken meat in cubes, and mix with one-third cup of ripe olives, two-thirds cup of chili sauce, a dash of cayenne and two-thirds cup of chicken stock. Line a buttered casserole with the corn meal and fill center with the chicken. Cover and bake about 30 minutes.

Tomatoes with Cream Sauce. Cut half ripe tomatoes in halves and sprinkle generously with salt, pepper, sugar and fine bread crumbs. Fry to a golden brown on both sides in butter, then let cook slowly, adding more butter. Pour over enough cream to half cover and simmer for five minutes longer. With a spatula lift carefully to serving platter and keep hot. To the cream in pan add an egg yolk to thicken, not allowing it to boil. Strain over tomatoes and serve at once.

Dutch Salad. Cut three slices of bacon into small pieces and fry until crisp. Beat one egg in a bowl, adding one-half cup of cold water and one-half scant cup of mild vinegar. Add to the bacon and cook until thickened. Season with one-fourth teaspoon of dry mustard, one-half teaspoon of salt, pepper and two teaspoons of sugar. Pour while still hot over shredded lettuce and serve from salad bowl.

Blueberry Slump. Cook in a broad sauce pan one quart of blueberries until there is plenty of juice with one cup of water, one cup of sugar mixed with one tablespoon of flour, a pinch of salt and the juice of one-half lemon. Sift together one and a half cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, pinch of salt and one tablespoon of sugar. Work in two tablespoons of butter and add sufficient milk to make a soft dough. Roll out thin onto a floured board, spread with creamed butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Roll as for jelly roll and slice down in half-inch slices. Place on berries as to not quite touch, flat side down. Cover tightly and cook either on top of stove or in oven for 20 minutes. Turn out on platter and serve with either egg or hard sauce.

Egg Sauce. Beat the yolks of two eggs with one cup of sugar until lemon colored and foamy, fold in the egg whites beaten stiff with a pinch of salt. Flavor with either brandy, cherry or rum.

10,000 PUBLIC ENEMIES

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

THE details of the Indiana prison escape ran along regulation lines: the usual plotting, underground letters, guns smuggled in from the outside, a concerted effort at liberty, and a day of horror. Two guards were wounded.

The Dillinger crowd hid for a time, and were said to have been harbored by the wife and mother of one of the convicts. Then Makley, Pierpont and Clark, together with a paroled convict named Harry Copeland, went into Lima, O., where Dillinger had been jailed, and effected his escape by killing Sheriff Jesse Sarber.

All this is widely known, together with the fact that a number of bank robberies followed in which the original Dillinger gang took part—Makley, Pierpont, Dillinger, Hamilton, Clark and Copeland—following which, some of them, with their women, went to Florida for the Christmas season, took another excursion into bank robbery, then moved to Tucson for a sojourn, where Makley, Pierpont, Dillinger and Clark were arrested. Neither Hamilton nor Copeland was present at that time.

The capture came on a double tip, one from a fireman who had been offered a heavy reward for saving a suitcase containing loot from a hotel fire, another from a traveling salesman who had "partied" with them, only to be amazed at the proud confession by one of the members that this was the Dillinger crowd. Following the arrest by the Tucson police, the women were questioned and released. Makley, Pierpont and Clark were taken back to Ohio, where they were convicted of the murder of Sheriff Sarber.

Clark was sentenced to life imprisonment. Makley and Pierpont were given death; in an attempt at a prison break, Makley was killed. Pierpont was executed. In the meantime, Harry Copeland got drunk in a Chicago tavern and caused a disturbance. He was arrested by Chicago police and held for Ohio authorities. However, through astute work by his attorney, extradition was given to Indiana, and Copeland graciously accepted a 25-year sentence for bank robbery instead of answering the Lima charge of murder. All this is merely recited to refresh the memory.

So now, the true Dillinger gang was gone, and it may be surprising that even in the beginning this crowd was not really headed by Dillinger. At least two of the bandits were his superiors mentally, one of them Charles Makley, the other Harry Pierpont. Makley was highly intelligent, a cold humorist who went about his work with a joke on his lips and a satirical attitude toward life; much of Dillinger's personality was developed through association with him.

Later, whether he liked it or not, Dillinger was forced through fear to bow to the desires of still another man; this person was Baby Face Nelson. Then, too, there was John Hamilton, who had a mind of his own, and later Homer Van Meter, who was supreme on banking matters. Therefore, instead of a gang ruled by an all-wise leader, the Dillinger crowd was largely a co-operative affair.

As to the Crown Point escape, when Dillinger was supposed to have awed guards on every side with a toy pistol which he whittled in his cell, the truth may or may not be shortly forthcoming. There have been several "investigations," one of which even brought about a trial and acquittal.

Dillinger was concededly a dangerous man. He was being held for the murder of a policeman, which offense should be a mandatory sentence of death in any State, whether or not it ordinarily permits capital punishment. He was so feared that he was surrounded by extra guards. Then why he was allowed a dangerous weapon like a knife with which he could whittle a wooden gun?

The Dillinger "wooden gun" was a poor job. It was so small that even had it looked like a gun, the average hard-boiled fighting man would insist that he could catch its bullets in his teeth and spit them out, like navy beans. Then why did it appear so ferocious? John Dillinger, like most murderers, was a super-sentimentalist about himself. He easily became maudlin and could cry into his beer over a mother song. Yet he subjected his whole family to the danger of arrest for harboring by using the Dillinger farm as a hide-out. With the same perversity, he carried away from the farm several of his baby pictures. These he invariably set up at prominent spots in his various hide-outs. With them always was the wooden gun, described by those who saw it hardly larger than a person's finger. Upon it, he had printed in pencil:

SOUVENIR OF 1934. I have digressed. When Dillinger came forth from Crown Point, he stole the automobile of Sheriff Lillian Holley and drove it across a State line, thus violating the Dyer Act and becoming an object of search by the Bureau of Investigation. Until this time, neither he nor any of his gang had been charged with Federal offenses. The Negro who had escaped with him, Herbert Youngblood, merely went along because the door was open. He was not a member of the "Dillinger gang."

Free from Crown Point, Dillinger had only one member of the original mob awaiting him, John Hamilton. Thus there was no Dillinger gang. The coalition which later bore that name came about by a throwback to the old Frank Nash crowd.

After Dillinger's escape from Crown Point, he immediately went to Chicago and looked up his woman, Evelyn Frechette, who, at this time, had not been arrested. They next met with some good friends from St. Paul, Eddie and Bess Green, hang-overs from the Frank Nash-Verne Miller-Keating and Holden-Barker-Karpis gangs. Eddie was an enthusiastic soul. He knew Dillinger in the days shortly after his parole in the spring of 1933. Having taken part in bank robberies with nearly every other gang on the map, he now formed the link in which Dillinger and Hamilton became forces in a new coalition.

Some history must intervene. Years ago, a tough, boastful, cruel little boy played around the packing house district of Chicago. In every game he wanted to be the crook, and his extreme joy came when he could play at "shooting cops." His name was Lester Gillis. It was not long before the police were warning him that he was under suspicion for petty thefts in the neighborhood.

THIS only made the boy more boastful. He joined a crowd of toughs in the habit of stealing automobiles, driving them for a few hours and abandoning them. About this time, Lester Gillis achieved two things. He gained the name of Baby Face and he became girl crazy. Whereupon he began selling the cars he stole, that he might gain the reputation of being a free spender. He was caught and sentenced to the St. Charles School for Boys.

From there he was paroled, a clemency for which he was twice returned on charges of violation. At last, free of the reformatory, he got a job as a truck driver, which he quit to become a gunman. He now became known as George (Baby Face) Nelson. His first job was the robbery of a bank at Spring Grove, Ill., followed by another at Hillside and still a third at Itasca, both cities in Illinois. For the Hillside robbery he was sentenced to from one year to life, and while in Joliet penitentiary he failed in an attempt to escape. That was about 1931. A year later he was taken to Itasca for trial and was sentenced to from one to 20 years. On the way back to prison he got away and was not retaken.

Shortly after this Nelson went West, he engaged in bootlegging around Sausalito, Calif., and where, among other persons, he met a bootlegger named John Paul Chase. He also met many other bootleggers and criminals, finally to become affiliated with the notorious Joe Parente crowd, operating from San Francisco all the way to Reno, Nev. Finally he headed East again.

time consisted of Thomas Leonard Carroll, paroled from Iowa; Homer Van Meter and Charles Fisher, now a prisoner in Leavenworth penitentiary on a mail-robbery charge. All had their women. Van Meter was accompanied by Marie Comforti, Tommy Carroll had Jean Delaney, otherwise known as Mrs. Edward A. Crompton, and Baby Face was with his wife, Helen Gillis. To make the scene typically American, Mr. and Mrs. Baby Face had their little boy, Ronnie, along.

Charles Fisher was picked up by the police of San Antonio. One of the remainder of the gang killed a policeman. So, things being hot, all but Fisher, who was in jail, started for Chicago, where the gang split temporarily. Finally Homer Van Meter and Marie Comforti went to Minneapolis, where they rented an apartment. One night they visited a friend's place, where they met and reminisced with Jean Delaney.

This host was Pat Reilly and he was making money far more easily than when he was wont to drive a carload of liquor all the way from St. Paul to South Dakota for $25. Pat got commissions on hot money. Or he would assist in a hurried getaway for a consideration, and had become generally an allround go-between.

However, he did not know everything in the bank-robbery business; reaching for the heights, he was still on the fringe. Eddie Green and Bess were more fortunate. Dillinger escaped from Crown Point, Ind., on March 3, 1934. On March 6 he, with Hamilton, Van Meter, Carroll, Eddie Green and Baby Face Nelson, robbed the Securities National Bank of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, obtaining $49,500. This was fast action for a man who had been out of jail only three days. Bank robberies these days are not hazardous affairs. Preparations sometimes consume one or more weeks. A week after the Sioux Falls robbery, Pat Reilly sat in a St. Paul restaurant eating a midnight meal. Eddie Green entered and slid into a chair opposite.

"Listen, Pat," he asked, "where's that doctor live, the one who treated your kid when he fell off his bicycle and bit his tongue in two?" I got a couple of friends outside with some bullet holes in 'em."

Walter Winchell

Dear Papa:
I DON'T know why it didn't get into the George Bernard Shaw guest column the other day, I saw it in the proof... Perhaps the paper thought your feelings might be jarred... At any rate, the last question and answer was supposed to read: "Q. What do you think of the American slang developed by Walter Winchell?" The Shaw retort was: "I am not acquainted with it." Tee-hee, is your face magenta? Max Gordon and the Rockefeller family have parted. After 4 weeks of the "Great Waltz" revival, the Center Theatre go back to films... Ed Wyman, after three and a half years as the Fire Chief won't return to that program. He has another, I hear... That Latin movie star, who disparaged a race in a Chicago night club, was beaten up and got a "double-Mickey". The papers keep hinting that Lydia Robert, the bride, is wearing smoky specs to hide a black eye, and they are right... But she got it, it appears, doing publicity shots for Paramount on the Coast. While leaning on a ledge Lydia fell one story, hurting her head, too. You'll like a new book called "The Rose Petal Murders" (Bobbs-Merrill), by Chas. G. Givens, a newspaperman... Fred Fisher has a new song written with Lou Gehrig's wife. It's called: "I Can't Get to First Base With You". The Hollywood cafe girls are glum. The new fall show will feature all new faces! And some have been there for over 5 years... I like that swishing of the palms rhythm the apes use while singing at Leon & Eddie's.

A movie troupe financed by one of the famous magazines is in Washington photographing The Forgotten Man. He's the other Senator from Louisiana! That magazine which Al E. Smith used to edit (it was revived as a mouthpiece for him) may be sold to the Republicans (a political party)... Louise Stuart of the Models Guild is the newest eye-fall to decorate the cigarette billboards. She's a new Chesterfield ad girl... Lee Shubert will help back Helen Morgan's new night club, The House of Morgan.

Marc Connelly always carries a cribbage board with him when he goes to Hollywood parties—in case they get dull... What do you mean—in case? I like that song from "Sketch Book" which is called: "Moonlight and Violins" but doesn't it remind you of "Santa Lucia"? In the current Buster Keaton comedy, the star, in one scene, spills dark paint all over his white sailor suit... A few seconds later his suit is spotlessly white!... Part of the movie cleanup campaign, no doubt... James E. Clifford, columnist on the Longview (Tex.) Ledger, was the star, in one scene, new hat it wouldn't be a girl, I told him to send you the bill... They are having an exhibit of The Smallest Things in the World at Radio City Music Hall, and Hazel Flynn wants to know would you like a picture of Ben Burrell included in it? YOUR GIRL FRIDAY.

GOLDEN GODDESS

Lillis, Believed to Be Their White Goddess, Is Led Into the Mountain Temple by the Indians.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO.
TIVA'S sheer rock rose 5000 feet above them, hardly broken except for weathered crevices which ran almost to the top. In the moonlight the stone was tinged with silver. Only a fringe of low bushes separated Lillis and the Irac leader from the mountain. Soon not even these, for the men pushed them aside and made way for the girl. The other tribesmen were behind, their chant rising and falling, sometimes only the barest of whispers, sometimes swelling in volume, until they seemed to be singing a soft song.

The leader dropped Lillis' hand, and placed both his palms on the crannied rock in front of him. For fully five minutes he stood like this, his forehead and lips touching the stone, his fingers outspread. Then he moved, but not far, only a few feet, and again resumed the same position. The chant back of him was hardly a murmur.

Against the rock, with his arms high above his head, he seemed very tall. Lillis found her eyes measuring him as she stood quietly, one shoulder resting against the mountain. Was he looking for the entrance into Tiva? Was there a door that led through the rock?

Once more the leader moved, this time another few feet, his lips and forehead, his outstretched fingers caressing the stone as they had before. The mountain couldn't move, Lillis kept saying to herself over and over again as she watched him. There could be no door in the solid rock. The legend of the blonde goddess—what would the Iracs do when they found out Tiva had no gate and no temple? When they learned that she was no goddess? Only a mortal... a poor frightened mortal at that.

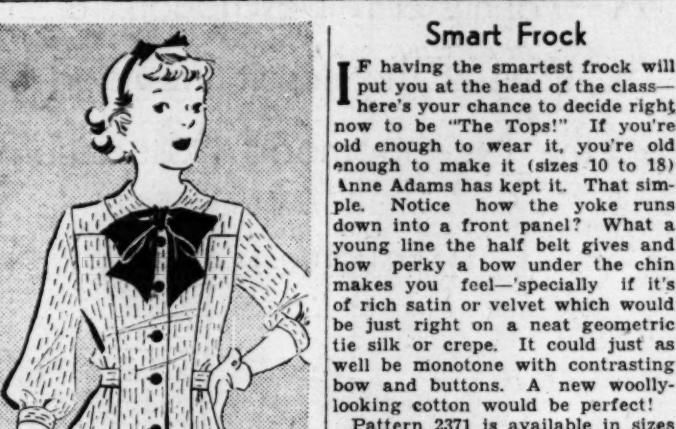

Darger—how credulous he must have been to have believed such a story—what was he thinking now as he watched? For surely he must be watching from some place near. All his elaborate precautions, all his elaborate plans... But even as she said this to herself, the Irac leader appeared to move. He was moving! He was taking a step ahead, and the rock was walking with him!

Tiva was moving—not the whole of Tiva but a door in front of the brown man, as high as his upstretched arms, three times as wide as his body. Lillis closed her eyes quickly, then opened them again. The man and the door were still moving—two steps into the mountain. She could hear the faint grinding of stone. The chant behind her became louder, but there was no movement among the Iracs. They were standing where they had been, circled around the girl they thought their goddess and the man who was their leader.

In the wild panic that seized her when she saw the door opened wide in the mountain, Lillis looked back, but the Iracs weren't looking her way. Their eyes were on the door. She looked around for a break in their ranks, so she might slip through, but there was none. Shoulder to shoulder they were standing, trampling the shrubs that bordered the base of Tiva.

Her eyes went back to the door, and she saw the leader back away from it, turn and come, his right hand held out to her. There was a strange ecstatic glow to his dark face. She didn't put her fingers in his, so he took them and drew her forward, much as he had done couldn't reach them. The ceiling, too, was higher. Soon she couldn't make it out any more.

What she was in now appeared to be a great room—how large she couldn't tell. Was that a pillar ahead? And was that another? And another? They were pillars—four of them Lillis saw and passed, passed close enough to run her fingers over the carved motifs on them. More on the other side, but she wasn't looking there. She was looking ahead at what might be a great chair set on a high dais.

The Irac leader was taking her right to it, and the stone throne loomed larger as they drew closer. It was carved, too, and under the dais at its base were great chests, four of them, large as coffins, two at each side of the dais, making an aisle to the steps that led to the chair.

The temple—was this the temple Darger hoped to find? Were these the treasure chests he was after? Lillis didn't have time to ponder more about the temple and the treasure, because the Irac was pressing her forward. They were passing between the chests, up the four stairs that went to the chair. Now he was pushing her gently into the throne and she was sitting down, too dazed, too bewildered to do anything else.

When she was seated, he took the torch and thrust it into a bracket on the right arm of the throne, and backed down the steps, his arms held high as they had been when he had come forward to her on the altar under the stars.

Lillis watched him sink to his knees in the little aisle the chests made, saw his arms fall to the stone hewn floor, his forehead touch the rock. From him she looked to the other men—they had done the same thing. They were all bowed before her, their palms stretched on the stone, their foreheads like their leader's resting on the rock floor.

The humming had stopped, and there wasn't a sound in the temple. (Continued Tomorrow.)

Creative Faith Is Necessary To Man Today

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

"THE future is a fear in my heart," runs a refrain in a song at the end of a play put on by the Theater Guild in New York. The play is a series of satirical scenes showing what life today is.

The song is sung by a boy and a girl sitting together, not in joy but in dread and terror of the future that lies before them—the future of youth which ought to be full of romance and dreams!

If youth, whose right it is to be nappy and free, is full of forebodings, we need not wonder that age trembles at thought of what may befall. What a travesty on what life ought to be and was meant to be!

No wonder life is so hectic and so hurried, or else lived in a kind of quiet desperation—now exalted by the intoxicant of excitement, now dulled by some sort of narcotic to deaden its dread.

In its inner life our society is steadily getting more unreal, its tension tightens until something snaps and people go to pieces—trying to run away from themselves, trying to escape the shadow.

Always it is so. The mainspring of human life is faith—faith in ourselves, faith in our fellows, faith in life. If faith fails, men fall back upon the negative spring of life, which is fear.

As faith fades, fear takes its place as the motive of life. As faith leaves us, fear crawls into the heart—a cold, slimy thing, which inhibits all that is fine and beautiful and daring in man.

Today we are all afraid—afraid of the future, afraid of ourselves, afraid of one another; afraid of doing anything unless everybody is doing it too; afraid of making mistakes; afraid of facing facts.

As a result we are frustrated, thwarted, paralyzed—the best mind of the world is confused.

Only a new birth of creative faith in the heart of man can save us from this sickening terror, and set us free from those enthusiasms and adventures which give life its glow and glory and joy! (Copyright, 1935.)

How Often Do You Do It?

If hubby forgot to grease the car as frequently as wife forgets to oil her sewing machine it would be just too bad. After 10 hours of steady service it is best to oil it, carefully removing any surplus. It will not require a great deal of oil each time but it will keep it in splendid working order.

What Is Success? Success in its true sense is a great virtue. Naturally, if such is the case, what some folks call success is something else. Money may be the measure of one man's success and the measure of another man's sin. Money in itself is not success. Success is the thing measured; money is only the yardstick of what it is laid against. Some succeed without money; others fail with millions.

Willy Nilly Has A Punctured Tire On His Automobile

By Mary Graham Bonner

"O H, DEAR," sighed Willy Nilly, "that is bad luck, and just when we were getting along so nicely."

"Yes, yes," said Christopher, who had flown off the back seat, "you have a flat tire all right."

Willy Nilly got out of the car and Mrs. Quacko Duck stood by watching him as he worked. She cocked her head on one side and then on the other, and looked as though she were very knowing.

He hadn't any spare tire so he had to patch the flat one, and it was a hot, dirty job. At last it was finished, and they walked along for a little distance, looking for some place where Willy Nilly could wash his hands.

"We saw so many ponds and streams before," said Mrs. Quacko. "Doesn't it seem strange we can't find one now?"

"I'll fly about and look for one," cawed Christopher. "Give me that little tin cup, Willy Nilly, and I'll bring some water back with me."

It wasn't long before Christopher came back, but most of the water had spilled out of the cup. Christopher had found it so hard to hold the cup while flying.

"Well that will have to do," said Willy Nilly, after a few moments. "Once more they were off, and they drove on and on until Christopher cawed:

"I see the magician's yellow house. We're almost there."

In another few moments they had reached his front door. "I see him in the window," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "No, I don't," she added a second later. "I see a cat."

Let's EXPLA Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. As pointed out in Eugenical News, many soldiers, killed in the War, were identified solely by their fingerprints and thus their families. It is especially dangerous for people traveling alone not to have their fingerprints registered somewhere. Several large Women's Clubs have recently adopted the creed, "We shall work for universal fingerprinting and registration." As I stated recently all new born babies should have their feet and their mothers' fingers printed on the same card. This would make mix-up impossible.

2. The world is trying a gigantic experiment today, even in human history—that of educating men for co-operation through the instruments of science—the radio, airplane, automobile, movie, television and the press. I think it will partially succeed. Yet it may fail because men lack that something higher than science without which they cannot co-operate towards great goals—that spiritual idealism. Science does not give the whole people a common set of spiritual symbols, such as all great united people have had. We need a simpler faith, a deeper religion than has yet come out of the laboratories of science if we are to build a truly co-operative society.

3. There are of course some problems that concern women more deeply and immediately than they do men, such as child labor, protection for maternity, women's wages and hours of work, social morals, etc., but it is absurd to suppose any of these problems do not also involve men. Nothing is more important to him than the health and happiness of women because these involve his own health and happiness and in fact affect the whole structure of the world he lives in.

Winning Jonquil

By Frank Kern Levin

RICHARD held the glass poised, then slowly drank. A little smile was coming to Jonquil's lips. The faces of the other guests of Bevan's restaurant were a background behind her; the faces seemed to merge, disintegrate, then merge again. Richard, contracting his brows, continued to talk, but Jonquil interrupted.

"You're not talking sensibly, Richard, dear," she drawled.

"I suppose I'm not; but is my attitude less sensible than yours has been for the last six years? Do have a glass of champagne. You may be able to see things from my point of view."

"No."

"My dear, I have always been a sober man. It may have been temperament or merely conditions. My aunt brought me up with an aversion for breaking the law. I seldom speed. Since it formerly was against the law of the land to drink intoxicating liquor, I drank no intoxicating liquor. Even now you would hardly say I am more than slightly inebriated, would you?"

"I would hardly say."

"In fact, it seems I am more sober at this minute, after three or perhaps four glasses of champagne, than I have been at any time during these six years. Six years! During which time I have been proposing to you, and you have been refusing me. Well enough. I have one opinion, you another. Do I sound as though I were making a speech?"

"In any case it is quite interesting. You have never spoken like this before—it's intriguing," Jonquil said, and wondered.

She was not a girl, she knew, who would merely tolerate; something there was which caused her to continue seeing Richard.

"Perhaps it's the champagne. Do have some. No? Well, I shall go on, anyway. Only at this moment do I think things through logically. During these six years I have given in to you, and we did not get married. It occurs to me now that you, in all fairness, should give in to me."

"Give in to you?"

"Of course. You should marry me, at least for the next six years. That would at least even things; at that time we might come to some further conclusion. What do you think of my reasoning?"

"I can see the logic of it," laughed Jonquil, "but as illogical as I may sound, I don't agree with you. Things can't go on this way." Richard said, "but at least do drink with me. If it is our last night together let it end with"—Richard filled two goblets, half rose from his chair, and, feeling uncomfortable in that position, yet not having the energy to rise altogether, sat down again.

Impulsively Jonquil reached for the goblet, smilingly put it to her lips and put the glass down.

"No, that's not enough. Come, you must drink!" Richard commanded, and again Jonquil smiled. She was 24 now; she could drink if she wanted to. She touched glasses with Richard, sipped at her champagne. Color increased in her cheeks.

Richard saw her eyes grow brighter. He filled the glasses again, and this time, not gently, he commanded her to drink. This time she did not sip; she gulped.

"I realize now," Richard said, "I cannot reason with you."

"You cannot reason with me," Jonquil agreed with pouting lips.

"I must pursue some other course of action. I have it! We'll get in the car, drive around all night and that'll put you in a compromising position. In the morning you will have to go with me for a license. I have it all figured out!"

"In the morning I shall have to go with you for a license?" Jonquil asked with a little catch in her voice.

RICHARD nodded firmly. With a little difficulty Richard helped the girl into her wrap, and she then helped him into his. They were able to make their way between the innumerable tables; they found themselves seated side by side in the roadster. Richard, without asking, kissed Jonquil. He started the motor and proceeded; but not far before there was an explosion and the car began to bump along. Getting out, he saw there was a puncture.

"We have a puncture," he announced.

"One thing I know," said Jonquil, "I am not going to sit here all night while you fix a puncture. Call me a taxi!"

Richard looked at Jonquil for a moment and then called a taxi. Richard strode up and down his room, his bathrobe swishing about his legs, his pipe fixed between his teeth. The morning after... He had what had happened? They had stopped in at Bevan's and there had been something to eat—and then—then there had been champagne and afterward talk. He remembered, altogether too clearly, that he had had a puncture. . . . And if they had not had the puncture, why, if they had not had the puncture, Richard gnawed viciously at his pipe. He turned to the telephone and turned away. It all came back to him now; he'd never forgive him. Why, after last night, he'd never be able to face Jonquil again, never. . . . The phone rang.

"Hello, Richard. I know it's funny, me calling you up, but I've been waiting all morning for you."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

44 YEARS WITH PINS IN MOUTH—The strange habits of Julius Pizzi, of Yolo County, California, started when he was a 10-year-old boy in Santa Rosa. He suffered with a bad tooth and found he was relieved only when it was picked with a pin. Then he started carrying the pin in his mouth just to have it handy. He added more pins as the habit grew, and for the last 44 years he has carried from 5 to 125 pins in his mouth, day and night. He also carries a great pocketful of knives—never less than 10—each of which he believes to be a good luck charm.

PARADOX OF THE BALLOONS—Take two toy balloons, inflate one to full size and the other to about quarter size. Connect them by a tube, and you will find that the air from the smaller will flow into the larger balloon. The larger balloon has the thinnest rubber surface, consequently it is weakest and the pressure within is less. Try it some time. TOMORROW: "MUSIC HATH POWER."

You've the puncture fixed by this time, surely? And wouldn't it have been silly driving around all night when we can go down to the City Hall just as well?

Richard reached for his hat, by without a word his maiden aunt, who had practically raised Richard from a baby, stared with a look of great surprise upon her face. (Copyright, 1935.)

THINK Congress is laying taxes on pretty thick? That's only the plastering job.

Wait until they slap on the stucco.

They adjourn soon and want everything pretty so they can enjoy themselves on our vacations.

Even coins are going to be smaller. Next will be a law trimming the fingernails to the quick. Then try and pick up some of the 1936 mills.

The man down to his last cent shouldn't get discouraged. He will still be able to split it 10 ways.
